U.S. Doors Opened To Cuban Refugees

New York (AP) — Standing at the foot of the Statue of Liberty, President Johnson opened the nation's doors Sunday to Cubans "who seek freedom."

He said the United States will seek, through the Swiss government, a diplomatic agreement with Premier Fidel Castro to permit them to come.

In responding to a Castro proposal which some officials suspect the Cuban leader never thought would be taken seriously, Johnson said:

"I declare to the people of Cuba that those who seek refuge here will find it. The dedication of America to our traditions as an asylum for the oppressed will be upheld."

Symbol of Freedom

Johnson spoke at his signing of a new immigration law on the New York harbor island where the Statue of Liberty has stood since 1886 as a symbol of freedom to arriving refugees.

Tourists broke past barricades and joined with congressmen and federal officials in a scramble for the pens the President passed out after signing a law removing national quota restrictions on immigration.

Castro was not mentioned in Johnson's text. However, the President obviously was responding to Castro's offer Sept. 28 to permit free exit of Cubans if the United States would negotiate an agreement through diplomatic channels.

Johnson said that to carry out the commitment to welcome Cuban refugees he would ask Congress for $12.6 million in supplemental funds to be added to $30 million programmed for aid to Cubans already here.

Up To 50,000

If an agreement is reached, American officials estimate as many as 50,000 Cubans might be given asylum at the rate of 5,000 a month. They would be joining about 270,000 fellow countrymen who already have fled to the United States.

The proposed flow of refugees would not be affected by the new immigration measure—the first major overhaul of U.S. immigration policy in 41 years.

The new law scraps country-by-country quotas that gave preference to immigrants from Northern and Western Europe. It fixes an annual immigration ceiling of 120,000 for the Western Hemisphere and 170,000 for the rest of the world. It is the first time such a ceiling has been imposed on Western Hemisphere nations.

Immigration from any single country outside this hemisphere would be limited to 20,000 a year.

Crop Yields 225 Bushels An Acre

. . . IN NU CORN TEST

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

A corn crop that yielded 225 bushels per acre has been harvested from College of Agriculture test plots on the University Stevens Creek farm east of Lincoln.

The yield, figured at 15.5% moisture, was produced on test plots under the direction of Dr. William L. Colville, associate professor of agronomy, who was conducting an experiment in connection with hail damage on corn.

Colville, as proud as any farmer with a big crop, explained that the yield came from a single cross hybrid developed at Nebraska that was planted April 29, 1965.

Planted Early

Colville credited the excellent yield in part to the early planting date which he says is showing under experiments in several states that early planted corn is beneficial.

"There are farmers now making 200 bushel yields and there is no reason why the same cannot be accomplished on many more farms," Colville said.

Colville said the same field produced a 214-bushel yield two years ago, 192 bushels per acre last year, and with the addition of 300 pounds of nitrogen and other good cultural practices hit its high yield this year.

The widely discussed practice of narrow row planting was utilized on the field with the row spacing 30 inches with 21,000 plant population per acre.

Colville's only criticism of the good yield was that he thought some of the ears were too large for practical farm production.

Important Factor

"Plant population can make or break your yield," he says.

The five steps closely watched by Colville are soil fertility, varieties that stand high population, plant population, culture practice, proper moisture conditions.

"Many farmers are not getting all the corn out of the field, and in some checks we have found where two out of five ears were left in fields through lost ears or corn shelled off at harvest and this hurts the over-all yield," explained Colville.

Colville says there are a lot of hybrid corns available to farmers that can produce 200-bushel yields under the right conditions.

He said the hybrid that made the big yield is a line used in quite a few crosses but one that alone would not be recommended because it lacks needed leaf blight resistance. By planting the variety extra early some damage due to leaf blight had little effect on the high-yielding crop.

The average predicted yield for the 1965 Nebraska corn crop has been set at 66 bushels per acre by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Police Arrest 41 In Raid

. . . ALCOHOL, GAMBLING DEVICES SEIZED

By JOHN DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln police staged the city's largest raid ever at dawn Sunday when they arrested 41 persons and seized large amounts of alcoholic beverages and gambling devices at the home of Lucius Pearson, 2636 Dudley.

Armed with a gambling, morals and illegal activities warrant and operating with the newly reorganized criminal division headed by Capt. Robert Sawdon, police surrounded the house at exactly 5 a.m. Sunday.

Several persons attempted to escape, but were met at the doors and windows by police. One person trying to flee plunged through a basement window only to find himself facing a police dog. He retreated, commenting that police were "a lot better than that dog."

The arrested persons were jailed and will be charged in Municipal Court Monday, police said.

Watched

Sawdon said the house had been under surveillance for some time. The house had been watched from early Saturday evening until the dawn raid was launched.

Police reported hearing gambling before the raid —the sounds of dice being thrown and bets being made.

Seized were dozens of dice, some of them "toppers" or crooked dice, hundreds of cans and quart bottles of beer, dozens of pints of vodka and whisky, many decks of playing cards and money, shift commander Lowell Sellmeyer said.

Sawdon said the raid was conducted like a military operation.

"Walkie-talkies were used and the police units were kept safely out of sight until the moment of the raid," he said. "At exactly 5 Sunday morning the units moved forward into position surrounding the house. All windows, doors and possible escape routes were covered."

Officer Willie Paschall knocked on the door. When it was opened Detective Orley Barker and police entered and Barker announced that the police had a search warrant and were searching for "gambling equipment and illegal bootlegging and drinking activities."

Patrons were then told to stay in place—that they were all under arrest. Pictures were taken, names of all present were taken and evidence was gathered up and marked. Police then used a shuttle of police cars to transport the 36 men and 5 women to police headquarters. A truck was needed to haul the evidence seized.

Authorities credited the new police reorganization plan as being one of the main factors in the raid's success. Under the new plan, the entire criminal division, including the vice section, is under the supervision of Sawdon with each of the three shifts having a commander of its own.

This lends the police greater efficiency in dealing with matters of this sort, authorities said, because the full effect of the force can be brought to bear through better coordination of the three shifts.

To Make U.N. Peace Appeal

. . . AND MEET PRESIDENT

By The Associated Press

Pope Paul VI set out from the Vatican before dawn Monday on history's first transatlantic papal pilgrimage. He said he was going to the United Nations "to encourage, comfort and bless" those who seek world peace.

The 68-year-old pontiff arose shortly after 4 a.m., Rome time, said his usual morning prayers and had a bit of nourishment before going down to his limousine. He drove out of the Vatican at 4 45 a m.

One-Day Trip

His Alitalia DC8 jetliner left Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport at 5:40 a.m. (10.40 p.m. CST Sunday), carrying him toward the New World on an 8,650-mile, one-day round trip.

In a departure statement, the Pope—wearing the white robes of a pilgrim and the brimmed red hat of a cardinal — said his trip had "no other ambition, no other purpose than to encourage, comfort and bless the forces of men of good will aimed at protecting, guaranteeing and increasing universal peace.

"The world needs peace; the world demands peace—true, stable, durable — after the sufferings of the wars which have disrupted our century, after the immense sorrows that have devastated humanity."

Paul, earthly head of the 550-million-member Roman Catholic Church, was due to arrive at New York City's Kennedy International Airport at 7:30 a.m. CST Monday.

Luci To Meet Pope

President Johnson came to New York from Washington to await his meeting with the Pope. The President brought along his 18-year-old daughter, Luci, for introduction to the spiritual ruler of the church to which she recently was converted.

Police, Barricades

Wooden barricades stood at strategic locations to control the millions expected to crowd the Pope's path. Extra policemen already were on duty, the vanguard of 18,000 assigned directly to the 14-hour papal stay.

Security precautions at the United Nations itself surpassed even those for the 1960 simultaneous visits of Soviet ex-Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Special signs forbade parking along the motorcade routes, and here and there stood scaffolds ready for newspaper photographers and television cameras.

Via Early Bird

Some TV segments will be transmitted to Europe by Early Bird, the satellite also relaying to the United States live coverage of the Pope's departure.

An altar stood behind second base a Yankee Stadium awaiting the papal mass for peace before 90,000 persons.

Also ready was the Holy Family Catholic church, where the pontiff's interfaith meeting with Protestant, Orthodox, and Jewish leaders will dramatize mutual concerns for peace.

Blesses Crowds

In his final public appearance before leaving the Vatican, Pope Paul bestowed his usual Sunday blessing on the crowds in St. Peter's Square at noon

The Pope and the President —the world's most powerful religious and temporal leaders—will meet in Johnson's suite at the Waldorf Towers.

In welcoming the papal peace mission, Dr. O. Frederick Nolde, international affairs chief for the World Council of Churches, said:

"The benefit of Pope Paul's address to the United Nations will be reaped only if men and nations in the days ahead will, with a larger amount of devotion, seek to build the solid foundations upon which true world community and true world peace must rest."

Mailers, N.Y. Publishers In Agreement

New York (UPI) — The New York Publishers Association and Mailers Union agreed on a new contract early Monday, leaving settlement of the city's 19-day-old newspaper dispute hinging on accord between the American Newspaper Guild and the New York Times.

Negotiators for the publisher's group and the mailers agreed on a two-year contract following a 5½-hour session which at one point bogged down on a question of job security.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed, but Thomas Laura, president of the 1,400-member Mailers Union local, said the men "are going to love this contract."

Sukarno Troops Fearful

Jakarta, Indonesia (AP) — Troops loyal to President Sukarno held command of this capital Monday but apparently feared a rebel attack from central Java. A military commander there has expressed support of the revolt that erupted Thursday.

Tanks, armored cars and troops guarded vital installations and were poised at some intersections and at the civilian airport. Antiaircraft guns were placed in the square opposite the presidential palace, apparently as a precaution because of the uncertain loyalty of the air force.

President Sukarno, in his uprising, said Sunday he was safe and well and remained "firmly in charge of the state armed forces."

(In a later broadcast heard by monitors in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, early Monday, Sukarno appealed for unity of the armed forces so that "the air force and army will not clash with each other." He also said accusations that the air force was involved in the coup were not true.

Faltering Tones

(Speaking in grave and occasionally faltering tones, Sukarno said in the statement over Jarkarta radio that he went to Halim Air Base near Jakarta when the revolt broke out. He said he made the trip "of my own free will because in my opinion it is better for me to have a plane so I can go anywhere anytime if something happens which we do not wish." The Malaysian monitors said the statement apparently had been taped.)

Units of the elite Siliwangi division recaptured control of Jakarta Friday from the rebels, but Col. Suherman, an officer in the diponegoro division in central Java, reportedly still was opposed to the government. It was feared his troops might march on the capital.

The army banned the communist newspaper, Harian Rakjat, which came out in support of the rebels, and suspended until further notice the communist-infiltrated official news agency Antara.

BIRD HEAVEN? JUST GARBAGE

A six-year-old Lincoln lad was crying because his pet parakeet, Kippy, had died Sunday. In an effort to console him his mother assured him that he should not be too unhappy because his parakeet was now on its way to "Bird Heaven," where everything would be wonderful for Kippy.

The child looked up at his mother and then burst into heavy sobbing.

"What's wrong now, Johnny" his mother said.

"Well if Kippy's going to Bird Heaven he's sure going to have a hard time," Johnny said between tears, "because daddy started him off by putting him in the garbage can this morning."

AMA Delegates Refuse Stand On Medicare Law

Chicago (AP) — The American Medical Association's House of Delegates declined Sunday to take any position on nonparticipation by doctors in the medicare program

Thus, the policy-making body of the big doctors' organization rejected efforts by a minority of its membership to encourage non-compliance with the new law.

It also reaffirmed its earlier stand and the opinion of the AMA's legal counsel that any concerted boycott move against the government's medical care program for the elderly would violate the antitrust laws.

However, neither the House of Delegates nor the AMA's legal counsel put any restrain on individual physicians. This position, also taken earlier by the delegates, holds that an individual physician is free to select his patients and to decline his services to persons in the medicare program.

The three-day House of Delegates special session was called at the request of representatives of one-third of its state societies. as provived for under the AMA constitution. Some 236 delegates attended the meeting

Forty three resolutions were presented for consideration by the delegates. The house turned all of the proposals over to its reference committee on legislation and public relations.

Echoed June Stand

This committee, after hearing views of 125 delegates during 7½ hours Saturday, turned out "a series of numbered comments, principles and policies which express the position of the American Medical Association," echoing the AMA house pronouncements of last June.

The report was adopted without major revision.

Several resolutions favoring a boycott of hte federal medical program were offered an their adoption urged in speeches from the floor by individual delegates. However, the House of Delegates was not moved.

The reference committee noted that "if after medicare becomes law, the individual physician, acting independently and not in concert with others, finds it does tend to impair the free and complete exercise of his medical judgment and skill or to cause a deterioration of the quality of his medical care, he would be justified under this principle in not participating under the law. The physician is ordinarily free to select his patients, subject to such ethical limitations as previously stated."

The committee also won approval of its statement "of policy regarding the traditional physician-patient relationship as it relates" to the medicare law.

Opposes Dictation

It said that "the American Medical Association opposes any program of dictation, interference, or coercion, whether direct or indirect, affecting the freedom of choice mine for himself the extent and manner of participation or financial arrangement under which he shall provide medical care to patients under Public Law 89-97." Public Law 89-97 established health care for the elderly, and is effective July 1, 1966.

In its summation, the committee said, "None of the recommendations should be construed as approval of the medicare law, or in any way as acceptance of its philosophy." It noted an assertion by AMA President Dr. James Z. Appel of Lancaster, Pa., that medicare endagers the quality of health care for the elderly. "His comments reflect your committee's feelings as well," the report said.

Dr. Appel told the delegates that the statesmanlike approach to the government's health program is to "try in the most effective way possible to bring about regulations and other implementing actions that will mitigate the baneful effects."

"We must prepare amendments to the law which will mitigate its harmful effects and gradually mold it in the direction of eldercare," he said. Eldercare is an insurance-based plan which is advocated by the AMA.

RESERVE OFFICERS HIT STREAMLINING

Washington (AP)— The Reserve Officers Association said Sunday the Defense Department's latest streamlining action will "cut the heart out of the organized Army Reserve."

In a statement the association referred to last week's announcement that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has ordered 750 Army Reserve units disbanded as unnecessary for contingency war plans.

"This plan is to immediately eliminate the six trained Reserve combat divisions and other major combat units remaining after the cuts of 1962," the reserve group's statement said. "It will discard at least 55,000 combat-trained experienced Reservists at a time Army training facilities are overtaxed."

The association disputed McNamara's statement that the 55,000 men will be given an opportunity to shift to high priority units.

"This is not so because the majority of the Army priority units already are at their authorized strength levels," the association said.

"Neither will there be places for them in the National Guard units which not only are not geographically situated to absorb them but have problems of their own in handling displaced Guardsmen from reduced units," the statement continued.

"It must not be overlooked that the original purpose of this entire operation by the Department of Defense has been to reduce the strength of the Reserve forces," it added. "Under the announced plan, this Army back-strength already has been reduced by more than 100,000 trained men from the 700,000 Congress said the Army should maintain."

Georgia Negro Leadership Is Behind Integration Drive

Crawfordville, Ga. (AP) — A Negro state senator told Crawfordville, Ga., Negroes Sunday that Georgia's Negro leadership is solidly behind their integration drive in that rural town.

The comment by Sen. Leroy Johnson came shortly before about 200 civil rights demonstrators marched about two miles to the Taliaferro County Courthouse in another of a series of demonstrations.

More than 100 white spectators watched the marchers, but there were no incidents.

Fact-Finding

Johnson and several other Negro leaders from Georgia cities went to Crawfordville on what they called a fact-finding mission.

"We represent the Negro leadership in Georgia, and it is determined to see first-class citizenship come to Georgia," said Johnson, who became Georgia's first Negro legislator since Reconstruction in 1962.

"We intend to use all the means at our disposal," said William P. Randall of Macon, publisher of a weekly newspaper.

Negroes are pushing for school integration in Crawfordville. After the county submitted a desegregation plan this fall, all white pupils transferred to surrounding counties, and their school at Crawfordville was closed. Negroes have tried unsuccessfully to board buses carrying white pupils to neighboring counties.

To Governor

Johnson said that the Negro leaders would assess the situation, decide on a course of action and put the matter to "the power structure of this state." He said that included the governor.

Hosea Williams of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), director of the integration drive, said in an interview that Sanders has committed political suicide with his handling of racial troubles in Taliaferro County.

"There is a question of whether Sanders can get the support of the Negroes," Williams said, referring to speculation Sanders will challenge Sen. Richard B. Russell next year. "He's not in the confidence of the movement people," Williams said.

Calvin Craig, Georgia grand dragon of the United Klans of America, called on the governor Sunday to force the compulsory school attendance law "before acts of violence forces it." He said he will go to Crawfordville to look over the situation.

103 Arrested

Elsewhere on the racial scene, Negroes again attempted to march in downtown Natchez, Miss., Sunday, and police promptly arrested 103 of them for parading without a permit.

At New Orleans, the Roman Catholic Archdiocese was shaken by tre appointment of a Negro as the new auxiliary bishop. There was astonishment, shock, prayeful gratitude, outrage — almost any emotion except indifference.

Immediate speculation centered on whether the Pope's move in appointing the Very Rev. Harold R. Perry to the post will sooth or upset the racial situation, relatively quiet since the uproar over school desegregation in 1961.

Case Assails Katzenbach Trial Talk

Newark, N.J. (AP) — Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., criticized Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach Sunday for his comment on the acquittal of an Alabama deputy sheriff who killed a young seminarian and civil rights workers.

"I disagree absolutely with Mr. Katzenbach's statement that the Hayneville mockery is 'the price you have to pay for the jury system,'" Case said in remarks prepared for a breakfast meeting here.

"Surely," the Senator continued, "We do not have to accept this kind of legal proceeding as being 'expected from time to time.' In this connection, the press reports that the federal government did not even have an observer at the Coleman trial."

Thomas L. Coleman, a part-time deputy sheriff was acquitted on a manslaughter charge in the shotgun slaying of Jonathan Daniels, a white Episcopal seminarian from Keene, N.H. The all-white jury accepted the self-defense arguments advanced by Coleman's counsel.

Calling the case "one of the latest, flagrant abuses of the judicial process," Case praised Alabama Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers who, he said, "has made it clear that he is not through with the case."

"We cannot brush off these tragedies with a casual reference to the fact that our jury system sometimes brings difficulties or that the dualism of our judicial system sometimes poses problems," the senator said.

Landfill Termed Good Operation

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln's city dump, or "sanitary landfill" in more polite terms, "may be the best in the state, but it's far from the worst," says the man who should know, Acting Director of Public Works Robert Obering.

Since operation of the dump comes under Obering's overall direction, he was asked to comment on a State Health Department entomologist's statement to the League of Nebraska Municipalities conference that 90% of city dumps in the state do not meet minimum health standards.

Council Kind

"The City Council has been very kind to us," he said, noting that $117,000 has been budgeted for the sanitary landfill for this fiscal year. "And we have enough men out there," he added.

Poor drainage is a problem, Obering admitted, but he quickly qualified that by saying the situation could be remedied if and when the city purchases the 370 acres it now leases at the end of No. 48th St., west of U.S. 77. Also being considered for future purchase by the city are an adjoining 130 acres.

He has budgeted money to provide for better drainage, awaiting only the time when the city can operate on property it owns.

Now, he laments, parts of the land become a sea of mud during wet periods, hindering both men and machines.

Pumps Used

Also, the underground water table is close enough to the surface to start filling trenches used to bury the refuse. Pumps are used continously, said Obering.

As for health standards, Obering claimed there is no problem with either rats or odor.

He said that employes are constantly on the look-out for rat infestations, but added there isn't likely to be a problem since the rodents prefer an open dump to a covered refuse operation for breeding purposes.

Obering said the biggest public complaint is smoke, with an occasional gripe about blowing paper, which he said the city could do nothing about.

He acknowledged that when the city passes an air polution ordinance, garbage burning will have to cease. "But we're prepared for it. It will only cause a minimal space problem."

100 Acres Filled

The city has used the present site for about eight years and has filled in only 100 acres of the leased land. Including the extra 130 acres the city might purchase, Obering figures the total 500 acres of potential landfill area can be used for 15 to 17 more years.

After that, the city will probably transform the dump into a park.

Obering said the future contour of park terrain can in part be decided by selecting the right sopts for burying garbage.

"Where we want to make hills, we'll dump garbage, where we want to put roads, we won't," he said.

Farm Bill Aids Wheat Income

Washington (AP)—How would a wheat grower fare under the wheat income stabilization plan agreed upon by Senate-House conferees who worked on the Johnson administration's omnibus farm bill?

First of all, he could expect more money for his crop. For example, a grower who received $3,385 this year for a 2,000 bushel wheat crop could expect to get around $3,688 for a crop of the same size next year.

The Agriculture Department would give Farmer Doe a 1966-crop planting allotment of 80 acres, the same as for the 1965 crop. The allotment — which is based on a farm's past planting—is designed to help prevent overproduction.

He would have the privilege of selling the 1966 wheat in the market or storing it under a government price support loan. The loan would average $1.25 a bushel. The 2,000 bushels would bring the farmer $2,500 whether he sold it or put it under loan.

But Farmer Doe, as a cooperator with the program, would get government marketing certificates on 45% of his crop, or in his case 900 bushels. This is the portion of Farmer Doe's crop which would be expected to be used for domestic food purposes. The plan would give cooperating farmer full parity—now $2.57 a bushel—on his share of the wheat used for domestic food purposes. Parity, determined under farm law to be a fair return for the farmer's costs, is the price goal of farm programs.

The certificates would have a value of $1.32 a bushel which, added to the $1.25 sale price, would give him the parity price of $2.57. Farmer Doe's certificate on 900 bushels would have a value of $1.188. Thus he would have a total return of about $3,688 for his 2,000 bushels—$2,500 from sale or storage of the wheat and certificates worth $1,188. This would be an average of $1.84 a bushel on his entire crop.

Funds for the certificates would be obtained by the Agriculture Department from two sources—75 cents a bushel paid by millers and processors on all wheat used for domestic food purposes, and 57 cents a bushel from the federal treasury.

Under this year's program, Farmer Doe got $2,500 for the sale or storage of his wheat under support. He also got marketing certificates averaging 55.3 cents a bushel on 80% of his production — $885. This gave a total return of $3,385 on his crop. Money for the certificates was supplied by millers, processors and exporters. Millers and processors paid 75 cents a bushel on all wheat used for domestic food purposes and exporters 30 cents a bushel on all grain shipped abroad.

In 1966, no payments are expected to be collected on exports—a development which would make it possible for shippers to sell abroad with need for little if any export subsidy payments from the government.

Farmer Doe's neighbor who had an allotment of 80 acres but planted more then would be eligible for price supports and certificates. Hence the return for his crop would be whatever he could get in the market — probably around $1.25 a bushel.

The average return for 1966 wheat would be somewhat less than the $1.84 contemplated for farmers cooperating with the allotment program because of the lower returns noncooperators would receive.

The Senate and House conferees still are working on differences in the version of the over-all farm bills passed by the House and Senate. The compromise version then will be sent back to the two chambers for final action.

There is an eye-catching "Wanted Alive" poster going up all over Nebraska.

The poster completed with the usual "wanted" information includes fingerprints and mug shots of a little girl and little boy.

The ages are listed between five and 10 years old, more or less.

Height depends on the individual and the eyes may be brown, blue, hazel or green.

The names or aliases are; Dick, Ken, Debbie, Peggy, Margie, Bobby, Dave, Joey, Judy, or Pete

The general habits that provide clues to the "wanted alive" boys and girls are: is attracted to water, may be found around ponds or tanks. Begs to ride tractors or other power equipment. Occasionally found climbing trees or buildings. Sometimes plays with matches. Could cause problems where poisons are stored

The poster also warns the wanted persons may run in gangs, they may play pranks or may be armed with bubble gum, water pistols or sling shots.

The big pitch for the poster is the Nebraska Farm Safety Council wants to leave no stones unturned that might endanger the safety of this age group.

The Farm Safety Council wants to encourage the learning of the meaning of the word safety, for all boys and girls and to remind them that the authorities concerned about their welfare include parents, school officials, law enforcement agencies, and the safety council who realize they are most wanted for love from the many adults concerned with their welfare.

Robert C. Fields, refuge manager, advises that nearly half of the animals selling are suitable for breeding purposes and that a wide variety of colors or patterns are in the offering.

The Nebraska Potato Council has kicked off a three month drive to familiarize Nebraskans with Nebraska potatoes.

You wouldn't think that a product as well known as potatoes would require an educational program but the potato council has found that not many of the state's residents know that Nebraska potatoes are in many cases better known for their excellent quality in St. Louis or Houston, or other cities than they are right at home.

A visit to the store will introduce you to the Nebraskaland Potato, which is a new variety developed by the University of Nebraska that is one of the most versatile potatoes ever grown. It is a champion on the table in any form and a winner with the processor who needs a high quality product for potato chips.

Nebraska's potatoes are now marketed in 12 states and Canada for potato chips and French fries.

NANCY YEARSLEY

When it comes to showing 4-H club calves the way the judges "recommend a boy or girl should to win" there is a freshman at the University of Nebraska that takes top honors.

This is Nancy Yearsley of Dunbar, who completed her 4-H career at the recent Ak-Sar-Ben Live Stock Show by winning the gold medal in showmanship.

Miss Yearsley made many friends among livestock people and club members in the state at the recent Nebraska State Fair when she pitched in to help Kay Munn of Waverly when an emergency appendectomy took Kay to the hospital in the middle of the show.

It was Nancy who showed Kay's crossbred market steer to the top win in the state fair class.

Nancy, who has been a club member who strived to make each project the best, believes there is a special reward for the club member or livestock owner who understands each animal well enough to show them to their best advantage.

Case Assails Katzenbach Trial Talk

Newark, N.J. (AP) — Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., criticized Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach Sunday for his comment on the acquittal of an Alabama deputy sheriff who killed a young seminarian and civil rights workers.

"I disagree absolutely with Mr. Katzenbach's statement that the Hayneville mockery is 'the price you have to pay for the jury system,'" Case said in remarks prepared for a breakfast meeting here.

"Surely," the Senator continued, "We do not have to accept this kind of legal proceeding as being 'expected from time to time.' In this connection, the press reports that the federal government did not even have an observer at the Coleman trial."

Thomas L. Coleman, a part-time deputy sheriff was acquitted on a manslaughter charge in the shotgun slaying of Jonathan Daniels, a white Episcopal seminarian from Keene, N.H. The all-white jury accepted the self-defense arguments advanced by Coleman's counsel.

Calling the case "one of the latest, flagrant abuses of the judicial process," Case praised Alabama Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers who, he said, "has made it clear that he is not through with the case."

"We cannot brush off these tragedies with a casual reference to the fact that our jury system sometimes brings difficulties or that the dualism of our judicial system sometimes poses problems," the senator said.

Farm Bill Aids Wheat Income

Washington (AP)—How would a wheat grower fare under the wheat income stabilization plan agreed upon by Senate-House conferees who worked on the Johnson administration's omnibus farm bill?

First of all, he could expect more money for his crop. For example, a grower who received $3,385 this year for a 2,000 bushel wheat crop could expect to get around $3,688 for a crop of the same size next year.

The Agriculture Department would give Farmer Doe a 1966-crop planting allotment of 80 acres, the same as for the 1965 crop. The allotment — which is based on a farm's past planting—is designed to help prevent overproduction.

He would have the privilege of selling the 1966 wheat in the market or storing it under a government price support loan. The loan would average $1.25 a bushel. The 2,000 bushels would bring the farmer $2,500 whether he sold it or put it under loan.

But Farmer Doe, as a cooperator with the program, would get government marketing certificates on 45% of his crop, or in his case 900 bushels. This is the portion of Farmer Doe's crop which would be expected to be used for domestic food purposes. The plan would give co-operating farmer full parity—now $2.57 a bushel—on his share of the wheat used for domestic food purposes. Parity, determined under farm law to be a fair return for the farmer's costs, is the price goal of farm programs.

The certificates would have a value of $1.32 a bushel which, added to the $1.25 sale price, would give him the parity price of $2.57. Farmer Doe's certificate on 900 bushels would have a value of $1,188. Thus he would have a total return of about $3,688 for his 2,000 bushels—$2,500 from sale or storage of the wheat and certificates worth $1,188. This would be an average of $1.84 a bushel on his entire crop.

Funds for the certificates would be obtained by the Agriculture Department from two sources—75 cents a bushel paid by millers and processors on all wheat used for domestic food purposes, and 57 cents a bushel from the federal treasury.

Under this year's program, Farmer Doe got $2,500 for the sale or storage of his wheat under support. He also got marketing certificates averaging 55.3 cents a bushel on 80% of his production — $885. This gave a total return of $3,385 on his crop. Money for the certificates was supplied by millers, processors and exporters. Millers and processors paid 75 cents a bushel on all wheat used for domestic food purposes and exporters 30 cents a bushel on all grain shipped abroad.

In 1966, no payments are expected to be collected on exports—a development which would make it possible for shippers to sell abroad with need for little if any export subsidy payments from the government.

Farmer Doe's neighbor who had an allotment of 80 acres but planted more then would be eligible for price supports and certificates. Hence the return for his crop would be whatever he could get in the market — probably around $1.25 a bushel.

The average return for 1966 wheat would be somewhat less than the $1.84 contemplated for farmers cooperating with the allotment program because of the lower returns noncooperators would receive.

The Senate and House conferees still are working on differences in the version of the over-all farm bills passed by the House and Senate. The compromise version then will be sent back to the two chambers for final action.

There is an eye-catching "Wanted Alive" poster going up all over Nebraska.

The poster completed with the usual "wanted" information includes fingerprints and mug shots of a little girl and little boy.

The ages are listed between five and 10 years old, more or less.

Height depends on the individual and the eyes may be brown, blue, hazel or green.

The general habits that provide clues to the "wanted alive" boys and girls are: is attracted to water, may be found around ponds or tanks. Begs to ride tractors or other power equipment. Occasionally found climbing trees or buildings. Sometimes plays with matches. Could cause problems where poisons are stored.

The poster also warns the wanted persons may run in gangs, they may play pranks or may be armed with bubble gum, water pistols or sling shots.

The big pitch for the poster is the Nebraska Farm Safety Council wants to leave no stones unturned that might endanger the safety of this age group.

The Farm Safety Council wants to encourage the learning of the meaning of the word safety, for all boys and girls and to remind them that the authorities concerned about their welfare include parents, school officials, law enforcement agencies, and the safety council who realize they are most wanted for love from the many adults concerned with their welfare.

If you want to enter the Texas Longhorn cattle business the once a year chance comes Tuesday when the 24th annual sale of 20 Longhorns will be held at the Ft. Niobrara Refuge Corrals northeast of Valentine.

Robert C. Fields, refuge manager, advises that nearly half of the animals selling are suitable for breeding purposes and that a wide variety of colors or patterns are in the offering.

The Nebraska Potato Council has kicked off a three month drive to familiarize Nebraskans with Nebraska potatoes.

You wouldn't think that a product as well known as potatoes would require an educational program but the potato council has found that not many of the state's residents know that Nebraska potatoes are in many cases better known for their excellent quality in St. Louis or Houston, or other cities than they are right at home.

A visit to the store will introduce you to the Nebraskaland Potato, which is a new variety developed by the University of Nebraska that is one of the most versatile potatoes ever grown. It is a champion on the table in any form and a winner with the processor who needs a high quality product for potato chips.

Nebraska's potatoes are now marketed in 12 states and Canada for potato chips and French fries.

NU Coed Top Ak-Sar-Ben Showman

NANCY YEARSLEY

When it comes to showing 4-H club calves the way the judges "recommend a boy or girl should to win" there is a freshman at the University of Nebraska that takes top honors.

Miss Yearsley made many friends among livestock people and club members in the state at the recent Nebraska State Fair when she pitched in to help Kay Munn of Waverly when an emergency appendectomy took Kay to the hospital in the middle of the show.

It was Nancy who showed Kay's crossbred market steer to the top win in the state fair class.

Nancy, who has been a club member who strived to make each project the best, believes there is a special reward for the club member or livestock owner who understands each animal well enough to show them to their best advantage.

Ogallala (AP) — The 25th annual conference of the Nebraska Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts will feature addresses by Gov. Frank Morrison and U.S. Sen. Carl T. Curtis Monday.

The convention, which has attracted about 400 registrants, opened Sunday with a banquet at which Dr. Frank Court of Denver, formerly of Lincoln, was the speaker.

Curtis, in his 25th year at Washington, is billed as a speaker Monday afternoon. Gov. Morrison will speak Monday night at the conservation awards banquet.

County "honor farm families," recipients of conservation awards for 1965, will be honored at the Monday banquet.

Five state senators—Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud, Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, George Gerdes of Alliance, Maurice Kremer of Aurora and Stan Matzke of Milford—also will address the convention.

A special Monday program for the women will feature an address by Mrs. Wyly Clark, state Flower Show School chairman, who will speak on "Thru the Season with Fun and Flowers."

Sen. Hooper Calls For Caution With Interstate Pact

Hooper (AP) — Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper, who attended a meeting in Missouri last week to formulate an interstate education pact, called for caution in the planning Sunday.

Rasmussen said the purpose was to discuss organization of an interstate compact to develop greater educational policy-making influence and research goals at the state level in the future.

Such an organization of states, he said, would avoid duplication and could better answer such questions as help for the mentally retarded and continuing education after high school.

"I am a strong believer in states rights," he said, "and this (education compact) represents a strong vehicle in which rights at the state level can be voiced."

He speculated, however, that if all states did not participate, the program might evolve into a well-organized minority group of states making policy representing all states.

If this happened, he said, the very objective of the program-control at the grass roots level—might never be realized.

Rasmussen was among 50 legislators attending the meeting. Gov. Frank B. Morrison also attended.

Val Peterson To Speak At County Officials Meeting

Norfolk (UPI) — Former Gov. Val Peterson will speak at the semi-annual convention of the Northeast Nebraska Association of County Officials meeting here Oct. 13 at Hotel Madison.

Z. N. Dewey of Norfolk will be toastmaster of the banquet scheduled at noon. Registration is at 10 a m. Henry French, Norfolk Chamber of of Commerce president, will welcome the officials.

The county officers will have round table discussions with state senators following the banquet and close the session with group meetings and reports.

Curtis To Open New Agriculture Related School

Curtis (AP) — Nebraska's new school of technical agriculture opens its doors Wednesday.

The superintendent of the two-year, post-high school is Stanley Matzke Jr. The school is designed to prepare young men for an off-farm, agriculturally related occupation.

At the outset, two programs—agricultural machinery mechanics and agricultural drafting, surveying and soil science—will be offered. Later, a course in agricultural supply, sales and service will be added.

Each program will consist of six quarters of schooling and one quarter of work experience with an industrial firm in the occupational field for which a student is being trained.

The last session of the legislature ordered the University of Nebraska to phase out the school of agriculture maintained for high school students at Curtis by June 30, 1968 and begin the vocational post-grad training.

Nebraska, Creighton Universities Receive $42,318 In Cancer Grants

Omaha (UPI) — Four cancer research grants totaling $42,318 have been awarded to the University of Nebraska and Creighton University by the American Cancer Society.

The funds are part of 178 research grants amounting to $5,066,549 approved by the Cancer Society for this granting period.

Two are individual grants and two are institutional research grants designed to encourage new minds and new ideas to enter cancer research.

The University of Nebraska was awarded an institutional grant of $12,000 and Creighton University $12,500.

Dr. Leo T. Heywood, president of the Nebraska division of the Cancer Society said the institutional grants permit a local committee of scientists from various arms of the university to allocate the funds to support new, imaginative cancer research projects in early stages of development.

Individual grants were awarded to Dr. John F. Foley at Nebraska College of Medicine, and Dr. Rainer Fried, associate professor of biochemistry at Creighton.

"The grants will be helpful," Dr. Heywood said, "in initiating studies on cancer and assisting junior staff members to undertake investigations to test new ideas."

Dr. Foley received a grant of $16,402 for his research which pertains to the possible defensive measures exerted by fibroblasts against cancer cells. Fibroblasts are fibrous cells found in connective tissue.

Dr. Foley said he believes there may be a substance formed by the fibroblasts confining cancer cells to adhere in compact colonies.

400 Gather At Ogallala For Soil, Water Meet

Ogallala (AP) — The 25th annual conference of the Nebraska Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts will feature addresses by Gov. Frank Morrison and U.S. Sen. Carl T. Curtis Monday.

The convention, which has attracted about 400 registrants, opened Sunday with a banquet at which Dr. Frank Court of Denver, formerly of Lincoln, was the speaker.

Curtis, in his 25th year at Washington, is billed as a speaker Monday afternoon. Gov. Morrison will speak Monday night at the conservation awards banquet.

County "honor farm families," recipients of conservation awards for 1965, will be honored at the Monday banquet.

Five state senators—Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud, Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, George Gerdes of Alliance, Maurice Kremer of Aurora and Stan Matzke of Milford—also will address the convention.

A special Monday program for the women will feature an address by Mrs. Wyly Clark, state Flower Show School chairman, who will speak on "Thru the Season with Fun and Flowers."

Sen. Hooper Calls For Caution With Interstate Pact

Hooper (AP) — Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper, who attended a meeting in Missouri last week to formulate an interstate education pact, called for caution in the planning Sunday.

Rasmussen said the purpose was to discuss organization of an interstate compact to develop greater educational policy-making influence and research goals at the state level in the future.

Such an organization of states, he said, would avoid duplication and could better answer such questions as help for the mentally retarded and continuing education after high school.

"I am a strong believer in states rights," he said, "and this (education compact) represents a strong vehicle in which rights at the state level can be voiced."

He speculated, however, that if all states did not participate, the program might evolve into a well-organized minority group of states making policy representing all states.

If this happened, he said, the very objective of the program-control at the grass roots level—might never be realized.

Rasmussen was among 50 legislators attending the meeting. Gov. Frank B. Morrison also attended.

Val Peterson To Speak At County Officials Meeting

Z. N. Dewey of Norfolk will be toastmaster of the banquet scheduled at noon. Registration is at 10 a.m. Henry French, Norfolk Chamber of of Commerce president, will welcome the officials.

The county officers will have round table discussions with state senators following the banquet and close the session with group meetings and reports.

Curtis To Open New Agriculture Related School

Curtis (AP) — Nebraska's new school of technical agriculture opens its doors Wednesday.

The superintendent of the two-year, post-high school is Stanley Matzke Jr. The school is designed to prepare young men for an off-farm, agriculturally related occupation.

At the outset, two programs —agricultural machinery mechanics and agricultural drafting, surveying and soil science —will be offered. Later, a course in agricultural supply, sales and service will be added.

Each program will consist of six quarters of schooling and one quarter of work experience with an industrial firm in the occupational field for which a student is being trained.

The last session of the legislature ordered the University of Nebraska to phase out the school of agriculture maintained for high school students at Curtis by June 30, 1968 and begin the vocational post-grad training.

Teachers Will Hear Sam Levenson Speak

Kearney (UPI) — Sam Levenson will be a featured speaker at district IV and V teachers convention, it was announced.

The ex-school teacher who has become one of America's favorite humorists will present his program at 8 p.m. Oct. 28 in Cushing Coliseum.

David City C Of C Elects New President

Closer Soybean Plant

Nebraska, Creighton Universities Receive $42,318 In Cancer Grants

Omaha (UPI) — Four cancer research grants totaling $42,318 have been awarded to the University of Nebraska and Creighton University by the American Cancer Society.

The funds are part of 178 research grants amounting to $5,066,549 approved by the Cancer Society for this granting period.

Two are individual grants and two are institutional research grants designed to encourage new minds and new ideas to enter cancer research.

The University of Nebraska was awarded an institutional grant of $12,000 and Creighton University $12,500.

Dr. Leo T. Heywood, president of the Nebraska division of the Cancer Society said the institutional grants permit a local committee of scientists from various arms of the university to allocate the funds to support new, imaginative cancer research projects in early stages of development.

Individual grants were awarded to Dr. John F. Foley at Nebraska College of Medicine, and Dr. Rainer Fried, associate professor of biochemistry at Creighton.

"The grants will be helpful," Dr. Heywood said, "in initiating studies on cancer and assisting junior staff members to undertake investigations to test new ideas."

Dr. Foley received a grant of $16,402 for his research which pertains to the possible defensive measures exerted by fibroblasts against cancer cells. Fibroblasts are fibrous cells found in connective tissue.

Dr. Foley said he believes there may be a substance formed by the fibroblasts confining cancer cells to adhere in compact colonies.

Dr. Fried was awarded $1,416 to further his research which deals with finding qualitative differences between normal tissues and tumor tissue.

How come 170,000 people in Nebraska are insured by Metropolitan Life?

Here and everywhere, more and more people are discovering that life insurance can be as wide-awake and forward-looking as their own plans for the future. These are the people who've learned about Metropolitan's exceptional range of up-to-date plans and policies. Here are two examples:

New cash-building policy for business owners

Perhaps you have insurance problems involving partnership, stock retirement, key man, split dollar, or deferred compensation factors. Then check on Metropolitan's new Executive Equity plan.

It's especially designed for business owners who want protection while maintaining assets through a rapid buildup of cash values from their insurance premium payments.

New $50,000-and-up policy at notable savings

Perhaps you have short-term needs to cover a large loan, to protect a partnership against death, for other business protection —or for substantial family protection.

In that case, Metropolitan's new 10-year convertible term policy fills the bill. Written only in amounts of $50,000 and more, written strictly for 10 years and non-renewable, this new policy offers large cost savings.

Your premium is remarkably low—especially for the first two years. And, assuming that dividends* continue at current rates and are applied to premiums, payments will be kept low for the full ten years.

At any time within the period you can convert to a permanent type of insurance up to the full face amount—without taking a physical examination.

These new policies are just part of the up-to-the-minute selection of life and health insurance plans you'd expect from America's leading life insurance company. Get the facts from your Metropolitan representative today.

More choose Metropolitan Life millions more than any other company

*Dividends are not guaranteed.

There are many reasons why Metropolitan Life insures 45,000,000 people—more than any other company. One good reason is local, personal service from the Metropolitan advisers at your nearest office:

A Slick Trick Or Two

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The hassle over detergents and their pollution of the nation's streams apparently is not over yet. The United States Geological Survey has reported that the soap industry has not had much luck in developing a product that breaks down in water. It seems as though the best the industry can come up with still leaves a sudsy residue. What is wanted is a detergent that leaves no sudsy film to pollute the streams and that breaks down quickly.

In A Lather Over Soap

In a way, one hates to see them working so hard on a soap that won't suds up. Or if it does suds up, it suds down equally fast. The day was when a soap that didn't suds was one you wouldn't have in the house. A bar soap that didn't produce a good lather was never bought again and was considered an inferior product. Now, they are trying to come up with a soap that won't produce a lot of lather or suds. If they do, all of us presumably will have to make the best of it but we wonder how clean your hands will be or feel after washing with a soap that produces no lather.

If they really wanted to perform a service, they would produce a soap that wasn't slippery. Soap has a way all its own of escaping your grasp or moving about. After washing your hands you place the soap where it should be on the basin. As you rinse your hands you can watch the bar slowly edge toward the bowl of the basin until it slips quietly into the bowl.

This, of course, presents you with a new problem. One simply cannot leave the bar of soap lying there in the bowl. Chances are the faucet drips a little, too, and the soap would soon be a mass of gumbo. Then, too, the bowl just isn't the polite place for the soau. It should be up on the shelf or edge of the basin.

Not wanting to leave the soap there in the bowl, your only recourse is to pick it up and put it back on the edge. But in the process you get your hands soapy again and have to rinse them off a second time. And as you reach for the towel to dry your hands, your eye catches that slippery bar of soap sliding again toward the bowl. This is a process that could go on forever and sometimes seems to do just that. It could all be cured if they invented a soap that wasn't slippery. There would be a big advantage to this in the shower, too, where one can spend a lot of time chasing the soap around on the floor. And what about the times in the tub when the bar gets away from you? Finding it again is a hit-and-miss proposition, at best.

If we could come up with sudless and slipless soap, we might open the door to all sorts of things. Cigarette smokers have long wondered why somebody didn't put out a cigarette that looked like tobacco, tasted like tobacco, smoked like tobacco but was actually something else. This would eliminate the cancer scare and leave smokers free to retain their old habits. Too, someone might come up with matches that won't burn. These could be scattered about the house to be slyly picked up by youngsters who know better but who want to play with matches, anyway. This would involve a certain bit of psychology, too. After playing with such matches for awhile, the child would become frustrated with his failures to make a fire and from then on would have nothing to do with the business.

Another bright idea might be a lockless lock. This would be for the fellow who liked to keep things locked up but who often forgot his keys. With the lockless lock, you would secure things to your heart's content but never have to face the consequences of forgetting your keys.

For children, you could have a shoeless shoe. This would be just a kind of covering that would stick to the top of the foot but would have no sole. Actually, the child would be going barefooted, as he wants to do to begin with, but everyone else would be satisfied that the child was wearing his shoes. And with no soles, the replacement problem would be greatly reduced.

Add Tireless Efforts

A treadless tire might be the thing for the man of the house. Without treads on his tires, he might not get very good traction but when would he have to buy new tires, since he started out without a tread? Already, they have a tieless necktie and it isn't a bad deal. Prior to that, the best deal was the tie that was kept in place with an elastic band under the shirt collar. But for some reason, the elastic band ties went over only in sales to or for children. The pre-tied, elastic band ties never made it with the adult population. But the new pre-tied neckties that just hook onto the shirt collar are being well received by many men.

For ladies, they might try to scale with no numbers or a purse with no bottom. The long-term benefits of the latter might be limited but the momentary convenience would be a great thing. If the soap makers just get busy, they could provide us some examples by which life might be greatly enriched.

The Patton Plan

James G. Patton, president of the National Farmer's Union, would bend an important element of the national conservation program into a $200 million a year service for the impoverished small acreage farmer.

He argues that national conservation planning is on too large a scale to aid the small farmer. It is a hat so big that it covers up the individual. He would trim back the big farm operator by making him pay for technical service and limiting his subsidies to the number of acres that make up an average farm. He would make it much easier for the smaller landowner.

No doubt he can muster some telling arguments for his position. But it seems that what he is trying to do is use conservation funds for farm relief. And that is a different department.

True soil conservation does not recognize land titles, but natural faults, wherever they occur, which, if not corrected, could cause serious damage to the soil. This is a natural matter, not a legislative one. A correctible land problem will not go away if it remains untreated because its course lies within the title of one landowner.

Rather than tinkering with a reasonably good conservation program for the benefit of farm relief, it would seem better to attack the poor income from the land head on. If the problem is solved there then the small farmer will have the means to attend to his conservation and enough left to live in reasonable security.

The problem is in the market place and not on an eroding piece of land out on the west eighty.

A Hint Of Action

The war in Viet Nam became much more real for Nebraskans over the weekend.

This came with a Pentagon order designating the 67th Brigade as one that should be brought to the highest possible state of combat readiness.

The 67th, as we know, consists of 2,600 Nebraska guardsmen and 1,100 Iowans. Affected by the order are the units at Omaha, Fremont, Lincoln, Crete, O'Neill, Norfolk, Columbus, Beatrice, Fairbury, Nebraska City, Auburn, Falls City, North Platte, Ogallala, Lexington and Broken Bow. That constitutes about two-thirds of the Nebraska National Guard.

The order means more modern equipment, and an increase of drill periods from 48 a year to 72. Until when and if this order is changed much of the guard strength can expect weekends devoted to military training. There will not be many fishing trips, golf games, cookouts and social affairs for them.

There is no basis in the order for saying that Nebraskans will soon be in Viet Nam or some other trouble spot. But the order does indicate that those places have become much more real. And the National Guard has suddenly become what it is designed to be, namely an important element in national defense. The guard whose early history was confined to keeping the peace locally and to defend against Indian raids, has, in two major wars, demonstrated its greater usefulness. It has distinguished itself well both in World War I and II.

Nebraskans will hope for world quiet and a resolution of present conflict, but it is aware that the Nebraska guardsmen have never shrunk from duty and have written a war record in brave and competent phrases.

The Cause Of Peace

A historic meeting will take place today between the President of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson, and Pope Paul VI. The Pope comes to the United States primarily to impress upon the United Nations his aspirations for peace throughout our troubled world.

Some may wonder what it is he can do. Many over a long period of time have raised their voices in behalf of peace and still the world is at war, sometimes even a hot war. But such an attitude is to give up, to surrender to those forces of evil that pry upon mankind.

The Pope comes to the U.N. simply because he knows the cause of which he speaks is one of which we dare not despair. He knows that if only sufficient dedication could be sparked in the hearts and minds of men, there is greater room for peace in the world than for conflict.

Peace is not the impossibility it might sometimes seem to be in the light of such long periods of distrust, misunderstanding and greed as we have seen in recent years. Nor is it a simple matter, by any means, a mere question of deciding that we are tired of fighting one another.

Peace will eventually demand of us the best of our humanity, the most of our understanding, the total of our compassion and the limits of our ability. It will demand a settlement in some way of the causes of such things as hunger and ill health which are the germs of international clashes.

Suspicions and fears will have to be dissipated in a wave of mutual trust and respect before we find the peace we seek. It is not beyond our reach but it is farther than current efforts have been able to take us. With the Pope's visit will come an inspiration that will, at least, stir a greater effort toward our illusive goal.

Pope's Visit Is Of The New Time

ROME — The late John F. Kennedy used to tell a story on Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Catholic candidate for president in 1928 against Herbert Hoover in a campaign featuring the charge that if Al were elected the Pope would move into the White House.

"After he was defeated," said Kennedy, "Al Smith sent a telegram to the Pope, 'Unpack.'

"In view of what the Catholic church has done to block my aid-to-education bill," continued Kennedy, "I am going to send a cable to the Pope, 'Pack.' "

In contrast, Pope Paul is going to New York today and the President of the United States, a deep-dyed protestant, is flying to New York to pay his respects. The Pope is not going to Washington.

The late President Kennedy, of course, would not have flown to New York to see the Pope and probably would not have been enthusiastic about welcoming him in the White House. Johnson is not afraid politically to make the trip: first, because he's a Protestant; second, because he has reached a great accommodation with the church on aid to Catholic schools and universities than any other President in history.

But there are deeper factors:

1. The greatly increased tolerance of the American people, who have come a long way from the days in the 1870s when Catholics were stoned in the streets of Philadelphia, the so-called City of Brotherly Love.

2. Pope John XXIII.

Pope John undoubtedly did more to broaden the church's friends and policies than any other Pope in history.

Here in Rome, an American Protestant remarked to me: "John was our Pope as well as the Catholics. He made Protestants and Jews feel that they could be a part of the Church, and they can never take that away from us."

As the Vatican bustled to prepare for Pope Paul's historic pilgrimage to New York, however, there was a quiet but vitally important debate as to whether the above was entirely true and whether John's liberal policies were being continued.

To understand the significance of this debate you have to remember that Pope John generated bitter enemies in high Catholic circles. The Italian aristocracy made no effort to conceal its opposition. Some Italian leaders claimed that John was making the church a woman's institution. Men would not attend church, they said, because services would no longer be in Latin.

The opposition to John was not confined to Italian laymen. It extended to some of the diehard cardinals in the Vatican.

BOB CONSIDINE

Vatican City State Unique Sovereignty

ROME—The chief of the world's smallest sovereign state will be given an unprecedented reception in New York and at the United Nations today. The "Stato Citta del Vaticano's" Supremo is, of course, Pope Paul VI. He rules over a realm that has a population of 1,000 and is about the size of golf course. It has its own currency, stamps, customs and telegraph office. It operates the world's shortest railroad, a few yards of track which lead through a gate to a spur of the Italian state railroad system — and thence to any point in Europe.

The state prints an influential newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, one of whose great editors of long ago was the father of Pius XII. Radio Vatican is one of the most powerful transmitters in the world. It beams news, music and commentary in seven languages — much of it directed at the imprisoned Catholics behind the Iron Curtain.

Vatican City State issues passports and has diplomatic relations with every important country in the world except the U.S., Soviet Union and Red China. It has a printing shop, and its own automobile license plates (the Pope was lucky and got VCS-1 for his convertible Mercedes-Benz which has only a single seat in back).

The crime rate is low. The last arrest was that of a pickpocket caught plying his art in St. Peter's during the coronation of Paul VI. He was held at the Vatican jail for several hours and then turned over to the Italian police. Lately the jail has been used as a storehouse.

The Pope is getting an "attico," a roof garden being built atop the papal palace. It will command a view of his whole domain, including the Vatican's superbly equipped observatory, the manicured gardens, the bakery, carpentry shop, weaving works, powerhouse, waterworks and his churches—both of them. One is sometimes called the "village" church. It is the size of his hat. The other is St. Peter's, whose nave is longer than two football fields placed end to end.

This is a state without an income tax. Girls lose their citizenship rights when they marry, men lose theirs at age 25 unless they are by that time employed by the state. This is done because there is no room in the state for more people than it now holds. There is no selective service. The state's "army" is a mercenary force, the Swiss guards. The only arms they have are medieval halberds. They bear with great patience their uniforms of gold, red and blue with coal-bucket helmets and shoes that turn up at the toes. Michelangelo designed the uniforms as an insult to a pope who dared to assign him with such a humiliating task. The Pope, probably color blind, exclaimed delightedly when he saw the drawings, ordered the uniform whipped up, and the guards have been stuck with them ever since.

KARL SCHEELE

Profiles In Science

Karl Scheele (1742-1786), a Swedish scientist who was one of the greatest experimental chemists in the history of western science, was born on the coast of the Baltic Sea in what is now Poland.

When he was only 14 he was apprenticed to an apothecary — what is called a "druggist" in the United States and a "chemist" in England — with whom he worked and trained until he was 22.

Scheele was ambitious. He spent all his spare time experimenting with the substances he dealt with in his master's trade, and by the time his apprenticeship was completed he was an expert investigator.

Scheele eventually went into business as a pharmacist in a small town in Sweden and after much work developed a thriving business. He found time to do a great deal of research and as a member of the Stockholm Academy of Sciences published several papers almost every year for the rest of his life.

His ability as a scientific investigator was amazing, especially when one considers how hard he worked at making a living, his poor health and the kind of primitive instruments he had to work with.

In 1774 he analyzed manganese dioxide, a project that led him not only to describe the various salts of manganese, but to discovery of the important element chlorine.

The next year he published papers about arsenic and the industrial compound copper arsenite, which is called "Scheele's green," a pigment formerly used in paints. In 1776 Scheele wrote and published scientific reports on quartz, clay and alum. In 1778 he found a new way to make calomel, and in the next year he proved that the "black lead" used in paints was almost pure carbon.

Within the next few years he shows that the acid in sour milk is lactic acid, discovered the composition of the tungsten ore called "scheelite," discovered glycerin, found that the pigment Prussian blue could not be produced without a certain acid that was later named prussic acid and worked with citric and oxalic acids.

Just before his death he published a book called "Air and Fire," in which he described the two chief gases in the atmosphere of the earth. The first was oxygen or "feuerluft" (fire-air) as as Scheele called it. The second was nitrogen.

Scheele said the first favored burning and the second repressed it.

According to some authorities, Scheele experimentally produced pure oxygen as early as or even before Priestly did, but Priestly has had the credit.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Getting Into College And Staying There

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Getting into college, and succeeding there, have become the most important problems facing American youth.

Each year some two million students from 30,000 high schools try to find their way into 2,000 colleges and universities.

In the years ahead not only will the problem be tougher but the importance of college to the individual student will increase.

The fear of not getting into a good college has become a national neurosis. It begins to grip children, and their parents, early in high school. By spring of the senior year when colleges mail out acceptance notices to the lucky ones, it has become almost intolerable.

Much of this nervous tension can be avoided. The only colleges in America which are actually swamped with applicants are a few so-called prestige schools, perhaps 100 in all. There are nearly 1,900 other colleges and universities in the nation, and most of them are excellent institutions.

In fact, the average student who falls a bit short of being an intellectual genius will be much better off in one of these schools which offer far more education than he is going to absorb anyway, than he would be trying to buck the competition in a highly selective prestige school.

Since colleges specialize more and more, finding the right college for you is the first essential to a successful college career. By following the procedure outlined in this series of articles you can improve your chances of finding the right one. In fact, if you start in time and go about it systematically you will probably locate at least a dozen good colleges which could meet your needs.

But wait until the last minute to consider the problem and you may be trapped into a careless choice in one of the most important decisions of your life.

Choice of a college should be made from knowledge rather than from hunches like, "The whole gang is going to 'Siwash' this year," or "Joe says Blank college is a great school."

My advice to you, whether you are in junior or senior high school, is—get started on the problem immediately!

The courses you take and the grades you make in high school can either open or close college doors. For example, failure to complete two years of foreign language can reduce your college opportunities by more than three-fourths. Or lack of a third year of mathematics can eliminate you from meeting requirements of engineering, scientific and technical institutions.

Your selection of a career will, to a large extent, determine the type of college you choose. On the other hand, your investigation of colleges and the many offerings available may help you select a career.

Developing the skills and self-discipline that will carry you through the critical first semesters and help you to succeed in college work will, in turn, bring you higher grades in high school; thus, will improve your chances of acceptance by the college of your choice.

Getting into college is not your only problem. College students sometimes make poor grades in their freshman year even though their high school grades, their I.Q.'s and their scores on entrance examinations are all high.

In many years of consulting with such students I have found they all face the same problem. They failed to realize that teaching and learning in college differ from that in high school and did not alter their study procedures accordingly.

NEW YORK—The way to make the sun shine is to carry an umbrella.

The way to make a lot of money is to have enough of it already.

The way to have dinner served immediately is to light a cigarette.

A Slick Trick Or Two

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The hassle over detergents and their pollution of the nation's streams apparently is not over yet. The United States Geological Survey has reported that the soap industry has not had much luck in developing a product that breaks down in water. It seems as though the best the industry can come up with still leaves a sudsy residue. What is wanted is a detergent that leaves no sudsy film to pollute the streams and that breaks down quickly.

In A Lather Over Soap

In a way, one hates to see them working so hard on a soap that won't suds up. Or if it does suds up, it suds down equally fast. The day was when a soap that didn't suds was one you wouldn't have in the house. A bar soap that didn't produce a good lather was never bought again and was considered an inferior product. Now, they are trying to come up with a soap that won't produce a lot of lather or suds. If they do, all of us presumably will have to make the best of it but we wonder how clean your hands will be or feel after washing with a soap that produces no lather.

If they really wanted to perform a service, they would produce a soap that wasn't slippery. Soap has a way all its own of escaping your grasp or moving about. After washing your hands you place the soap where it should be on the basin. As you rinse your hands you can watch the bar slowly edge toward the bowl of the basin until it slips quietly into the bowl.

This, of course, presents you with a new problem. One simply cannot leave the bar of soap lying there in the bowl. Chances are the faucet drips a little, too, and the soap would soon be a mass of gumbo. Then, too, the bowl just isn't the polite place for the soau. It should be up on the shelf or edge of the basin.

Not wanting to leave the soap there in the bowl, your only recourse is to pick it up and put it back on the edge. But in the process you get your hands soapy again and have to rinse them off a second time. And as you reach for the towel to dry your hands, your eye catches that slippery bar of soap sliding again toward the bowl. This is a process that could go on forever and sometimes seems to do just that. It could all be cured if they invented a soap that wasn't slippery. There would be a big advantage to this in the shower, too, where one can spend a lot of time chasing the soap around on the floor. And what about the times in the tub when the bar gets away from you? Finding it again is a hit-and-miss proposition, at best.

If we could come up with sudless and slipless soap, we might open the door to all sorts of things. Cigarette smokers have long wondered why somebody didn't put out a cigarette that looked like tobacco, tasted like tobacco, smoked like tobacco but was actually something else. This would eliminate the cancer scare and leave smokers free to retain their old habits. Too, someone might come up with matches that won't burn. These could be scattered about the house to be slyly picked up by youngsters who know better but who want to play with matches, anyway. This would involve a certain bit of psychology, too. After playing with such matches for awhile, the child would become frustrated with his failures to make a fire and from then on would have nothing to do with the business.

Another bright idea might be a lockless lock. This would be for the fellow who liked to keep things locked up but who often forgot his keys. With the lockless lock, you would secure things to your heart's content but never have to face the consequences of forgetting your keys.

For children, you could have a shoeless shoe. This would be just a kind of covering that would stick to the top of the foot but would have no sole. Actually, the child would be going barefooted, as he wants to do to begin with, but everyone else would be satisfied that the child was wearing his shoes. And with no soles, the replacement problem would be greatly reduced.

Add Tireless Efforts

A treadless tire might be the thing for the man of the house. Without treads on his tires, he might not get very good traction but when would he have to buy new tires, since he started out without a tread? Already, they have a tieless necktie and it isn't a bad deal. Prior to that, the best deal was the tie that was kept in place with an elastic band under the shirt collar. But for some reason, the elastic band ties went over only in sales to or for children. The pre-tied, elastic band ties never made it with the adult population. But the new pre-tied neckties that just hook onto the shirt collar are being well received by many men.

For ladies, they might try to scale with no numbers or a purse with no bottom. The long-term benefits of the latter might be limited but the momentary convenience would be a great thing. If the soap makers just get busy, they could provide us some examples by which life might be greatly enriched.

The Patton Plan

James G. Patton, president of the National Farmer's Union, would bend an important element of the national conservation program into a $200 million a year service for the impoverished small acreage farmer.

He argues that national conservation planning is on too large a scale to aid the small farmer. It is a hat so big that it covers up the individual. He would trim back the big farm operator by making him pay for technical service and limiting his subsidies to the number of acres that make up an average farm. He would make it much easier for the smaller landowner.

No doubt he can muster some telling arguments for his position. But it seems that what he is trying to do is use conservation funds for farm relief. And that is a different department.

True soil conservation does not recognize land titles, but natural faults, wherever they occur, which, if not corrected, could cause serious damage to the soil. This is a natural matter, not a legislative one. A correctible land problem will not go away if it remains untreated because its course lies within the title of one landowner.

Rather than tinkering with a reasonably good conservation program for the benefit of farm relief, it would seem better to attack the poor income from the land head on. If the problem is solved there then the small farmer will have the means to attend to his conservation and enough left to live in reasonable security.

The problem is in the market place and not on an eroding piece of land out on the west eighty.

A Hint Of Action

The war in Viet Nam became much more real for Nebraskans over the weekend.

This came with a Pentagon order designating the 67th Brigade as one that should be brought to the highest possible state of combat readiness.

The 67th, as we know, consists of 2,600 Nebraska guardsmen and 1,100 Iowans. Affected by the order are the units at Omaha, Fremont, Lincoln, Crete, O'Neill, Norfolk, Columbus, Beatrice, Fairbury, Nebraska City, Auburn, Falls City, North Platte, Ogallala, Lexington and Broken Bow. That constitutes about two-thirds of the Nebraska National Guard.

The order means more modern equipment, and an increase of drill periods from 48 a year to 72. Until when and if this order is changed much of the guard strength can expect weekends devoted to military training. There will not be many fishing trips, golf games, cookouts and social affairs for them.

There is no basis in the order for saying that Nebraskans will soon be in Viet Nam or some other trouble spot. But the order does indicate that those places have become much more real. And the National Guard has suddenly become what it is designed to be, namely an important element in national defense. The guard whose early history was confined to keeping the peace locally and to defend against Indian raids, has, in two major wars, demonstrated its greater usefulness. It has distinguished itself well both in World War I and II.

Nebraskans will hope for world quiet and a resolution of present conflict, but it is aware that the Nebraska guardsmen have never shrunk from duty and have written a war record in brave and competent phrases.

The Cause Of Peace

A historic meeting will take place today between the President of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson, and Pope Paul VI. The Pope comes to the United States primarily to impress upon the United Nations his aspirations for peace throughout our troubled world.

Some may wonder what it is he can do. Many over a long period of time have raised their voices in behalf of peace and still the world is at war, sometimes even a hot war. But such an attitude is to give up, to surrender to those forces of evil that pry upon mankind.

The Pope comes to the U.N. simply because he knows the cause of which he speaks is one of which we dare not despair. He knows that if only sufficient dedication could be sparked in the hearts and minds of men, there is greater room for peace in the world than for conflict.

Peace is not the impossibility it might sometimes seem to be in the light of such long periods of distrust, misunderstanding and greed as we have seen in recent years. Nor is it a simple matter, by any means, a mere question of deciding that we are tired of fighting one another.

Peace will eventually demand of us the best of our humanity, the most of our understanding, the total of our compassion and the limits of our ability. It will demand a settlement in some way of the causes of such things as hunger and ill health which are the germs of international clashes.

Suspicions and fears will have to be dissipated in a wave of mutual trust and respect before we find the peace we seek. It is not beyond our reach but it is further than current efforts have been able to take us. With the Pope's visit will come an inspiration that will, at least, stir a greater effort toward our illusive goal.

Pope's Visit Is Of The New Time

ROME — The late John F. Kennedy used to tell a story on Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Catholic candidate for president in 1928 against Herbert Hoover in a campaign featuring the charge that if Al were elected the Pope would move into the White House.

"After he was defeated," said Kennedy, "Al Smith sent a telegram to the Pope, 'Unpack.'

"In view of what the Catholic church has done to block my aid-to-education bill," continued Kennedy, "I am going to send a cable to the Pope, 'Pack.' "

In contrast, Pope Paul is going to New York today and the President of the United States, a deep-dyed protestant, is flying to New York to pay his respects. The Pope is not going to Washington.

The late President Kennedy, of course, would not have flown to New York to see the Pope and probably would not have been enthusiastic about welcoming him in the White House. Johnson is not afraid politically to make the trip: first, because he's a Protestant; second, because he has reached a great accommodation with the church on aid to Catholic schools and universities than any other President in history.

But there are deeper factors:

1. The greatly increased tolerance of the American people, who have come a long way from the days in the 1870s when Catholics were stoned in the streets of Philadelphia, the so-called City of Brotherly Love.

2. Pope John XXIII.

Pope John undoubtedly did more to broaden the church's friends and policies than any other Pope in history.

Here in Rome, an American Protestant remarked to me: "John was our Pope as well as the Catholics. He made Protestants and Jews feel that they could be a part of the Church, and they can never take that away from us."

As the Vatican bustled to prepare for Pope Paul's historic pilgrimage to New York, however, there was a quiet but vitally important debate as to whether the above was entirely true and whether John's liberal policies were being continued.

To understand the significance of this debate you have to remember that Pope John generated bitter enemies in high Catholic circles. The Italian aristocracy made no effort to conceal its opposition. Some Italian leaders claimed that John was making the church a woman's institution. Men would not attend church, they said, because services would no longer be in Latin.

The opposition to John was not confined to Italian laymen. It extended to some of the diehard cardinals in the Vatican.

Vatican City State Unique Sovereignty

ROME—The chief of the world's smallest sovereign state will be given an unprecedented reception in New York and at the United Nations today. The "Stato Citta del Vaticano's" Supremo is, of course, Pope Paul VI. He rules over a realm that has a population of 1,000 and is about the size of golf course. It has its own currency, stamps, customs and telegraph office. It operates the world's shortest railroad, a few yards of track which lead through a gate to a spur of the Italian state railroad system — and thence to any point in Europe.

The state prints an influential newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, one of whose great editors of long ago was the father of Pius XII. Radio Vatican is one of the most powerful transmitters in the world. It beams news, music and commentary in seven languages — much of it directed at the imprisoned Catholics behind the Iron Curtain.

Vatican City State issues passports and has diplomatic relations with every important country in the world except the U.S., Soviet Union and Red China. It has a printing shop, and its own automobile license plates (the Pope was lucky and got VCS-1 for his convertible Mercedes-Benz which has only a single seat in back).

The crime rate is low. The last arrest was that of a pickpocket caught plying his art in St. Peter's during the coronation of Paul VI. He was held at the Vatican jail for several hours and then turned over to the Italian police. Lately the jail has been used as a storehouse.

The Pope is getting an "attico," a roof garden being built atop the papal palace. It will command a view of his whole domain, including the Vatican's superbly equipped observatory, the manicured gardens, the bakery, carpentry shop, weaving works, powerhouse, waterworks and his churches—both of them. One is sometimes called the "village" church. It is the size of his hat. The other is St. Peter's, whose nave is longer than two football fields placed end to end.

This is a state without an income tax. Girls lose their citizenship rights when they marry, men lose theirs at age 25 unless they are by that time employed by the state. This is done because there is no room in the state for more people than it now holds. There is no selective service. The state's "army" is a mercenary force, the Swiss guards. The only arms they have are medieval halberds. They bear with great patience their uniforms of gold, red and blue with coal-bucket helmets and shoes that turn up at the toes. Michelangelo designed the uniforms as an insult to a pope who dared to assign him with such a humiliating task. The Pope, probably color blind, exclaimed delightedly when he saw the drawings, ordered the uniform whipped up, and the guards have been stuck with them ever since.

KARL SCHEELE

Profiles In Science

Karl Scheele (1742-1786), a Swedish scientist who was one of the greatest experimental chemists in the history of western science, was born on the coast of the Baltic Sea in what is now Poland.

When he was only 14 he was apprenticed to an apothecary — what is called a "druggist" in the United States and a "chemist" in England — with whom he worked and trained until he was 22.

Scheele was ambitious. He spent all his spare time experimenting with the substances he dealt with in his master's trade, and by the time his apprenticeship was completed he was an expert investigator.

Scheele eventually went into business as a pharmacist in a small town in Sweden and after much work developed a thriving business. He found time to do a great deal of research and as a member of the Stockholm Academy of Sciences published several papers almost every year for the rest of his life.

His ability as a scientific investigator was amazing, especially when one considers how hard he worked at making a living, his poor health and the kind of primitive instruments he had to work with.

In 1774 he analyzed manganese dioxide, a project that led him not only to describe the various salts of manganese, but to discovery of the important element chlorine.

The next year he published papers about arsenic and the industrial compound copper arsenite, which is called "Scheele's green," a pigment formerly used in paints. In 1776 Scheele wrote and published scientific reports on quartz, clay and alum. In 1778 he found a new way to make calomel, and in the next year he proved that the "black lead" used in paints was almost pure carbon.

Within the next few years he shows that the acid in sour milk is lactic acid, discovered the composition of the tungsten ore called "scheelite," discovered glycerin, found that the pigment Prussian blue could not be produced without a certain acid that was later named prussic acid and worked with citric and oxalic acids.

Just before his death he published a book called "Air and Fire," in which he described the two chief gases in the atmosphere of the earth. The first was oxygen or "feuerluft" (fire-air) as as Scheele called it. The second was nitrogen.

Scheele said the first favored burning and the second repressed it.

According to some authorities, Scheele experimentally produced pure oxygen as early as or even before Priestly did, but Priestly has had the credit.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Getting Into College And Staying There

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Getting into college, and succeeding there, have become the most important problems facing American youth.

Each year some two million students from 30,000 high schools try to find their way into 2,000 colleges and universities.

In the years ahead not only will the problem be tougher but the importance of college to the individual student will increase.

The fear of not getting into a good college has become a national neurosis. It begins to grip children, and their parents, early in high school. By spring of the senior year when colleges mail out acceptance notices to the lucky ones, it has become almost intolerable.

Much of this nervous tension can be avoided. The only colleges in America which are actually swamped with applicants are a few so-called prestige schools, perhaps 100 in all. There are nearly 1,900 other colleges and universities in the nation, and most of them are excellent institutions.

In fact, the average student who falls a bit short of being an intellectual genius will be much better off in one of these schools which offer far more education than he is going to absorb anyway, than he would be trying to buck the competition in a highly selective prestige school.

Since colleges specialize more and more, finding the right college for you is the first essential to a successful college career. By following the procedure outlined in this series of articles you can improve your chances of finding the right one. In fact, if you start in time and go about it systematically you will probably locate at least a dozen good colleges which could meet your needs.

But wait until the last minute to consider the problem and you may be trapped into a careless choice in one of the most important decisions of your life.

Choice of a college should be made from knowledge rather than from hunches like, "The whole gang is going to 'Siwash' this year," or "Joe says Blank college is a great school."

My advice to you, whether you are in junior or senior high school, is—get started on the problem immediately!

The courses you take and the grades you make in high school can either open or close college doors. For example, failure to complete two years of foreign language can reduce your college opportunities by more than three-fourths. Or lack of a third year of mathematics can eliminate you from meeting requirements of engineering, scientific and technical institutions.

Your selection of a career will, to a large extent, determine the type of college you choose. On the other hand, your investigation of colleges and the many offerings available may help you select a career.

Developing the skills and self-discipline that will carry you through the critical first semesters and help you to succeed in college work will, in turn, bring you higher grades in high school; thus, will improve your chances of acceptance by the college of your choice.

Getting into college is not your only problem. College students sometimes make poor grades in their freshman year even though their high school grades, their I.Q.'s and their scores on entrance examinations are all high.

In many years of consulting with such students I have found they all face the same problem. They failed to realize that teaching and learning in college differ from that in high school and did not alter their study procedures accordingly.

"As soon as I won the blue ribbons for my baking and jams, I got three marriage proposals."

A brisk, fall morning in our country, Professor. We had our first fire in the fireplace last night.

I guess you are wondering hcw we lived in the Atomic Age before we blew ourselves to atoms. It was a great life — while it lasted.

This was popcorn weather (until the big pop!) Popcorn and the upper balcony and love. We thought well of love, Professor. Maybe by your time you will have harnessed this vital energy. But in our day, it ran wild as the wind.

Song writers made a business out of it. Poets tortured their ganglia with it.

I expect in your day love will. be automated — automation is taking over everything now. Love will probably be automatic. Push the button. Instant love.

But in our day, it was all done by dead reckoning.

An interesting point about this is that love usually failed to meet the advance billing.

People did not live happily ever after as advertised. More often, they lived dangerously ever after. And, as when I was molding public opinion for the dailies, I listened to many a lady for whom love failed to beat in three-quarter time.

☆ ☆ ☆

One thing we did have, Professor, were sympathetic judges. They were not automated. They were all heart.

"Did your sugar give you your lumps?"

"He did, he did," said the lady. "He beat me like a rug."

The lady's sugar would then try to show that said lady had broken the 90-piece set of wedding china on his sore noggin before he resisted.

But this was ruled irrelevant, immaterial and downright lacking in chivalry.

Ah, love made the world go round, Professor. Before they put it on automatic.

In a little Spanish town the other night ('twas on a night like his), a young lover stuck his head through the window bars to kiss his deep-dish tamale.

Alas, his head stuck in the rungs. Her papa came along and belted him until neignbors could summon the blacksmith to pry him loose.

In Southern California — —(and there was an ever-loving country! — a gent who married for love got a divorce for insomnia.

He discovered his bride kept a razor under her pillow. (He figured she did not keep it there to shave.)

He couldn't go to sleep thinking about what she did keep it there for.

Love was "repaid with scorn." It was "sweet as the day." Love was "the coldest of critics" and "like the measles." They were lovely times and worth your research.

An interesting point about this is that love usually failed to meet the advance billing.

People did not live happily ever after as advertised. More often, they lived dangerously ever after. And, as when I was molding public opinion for the dailies, I listened to many a lady for whom love failed to beat in three-quarter time.

☆ ☆ ☆

One thing we did have, Professor, were sympathetic judges. They were not automated. They were all heart.

"Did your sugar give you your lumps?"

"He did, he did," said the lady. "He beat me like a rug."

The lady's sugar would then try to show that said lady had broken the 90-piece set of wedding china on his sore noggin before he resisted.

But this was ruled irrelevant, immaterial and downright lacking in chivalry.

Ah, love made the world go round, Professor. Before they put it on automatic.

In a little Spanish town the other night ('twas on a night like his), a young lover stuck his head through the window bars to kiss his deep-dish tamale.

Alas, his head stuck in the rungs. Her papa came along and belted him until neignbors could summon the blacksmith to pry him loose.

In Southern California — —(and there was an ever-loving country! — a gent who married for love got a divorce for insomnia.

He discovered his bride kept a razor under her pillow. (He figured she did not keep it there to shave.)

He couldn't go to sleep thinking about what she did keep it there for.

Love was "repaid with scorn." It was "sweet as the day." Love was "the coldest of critics" and "like the measles." They were lovely times and worth your research.

Volcano Action Brings Memories To Lincolnite

When a long-dead volcano erupted last week in the Philippine Islands, Lincolnite Sidney A. Cornell recalled visiting the area in 1953 and dug out his pictures from the visit. The volcano was dormant then, although it had killed 3,000 people in 1917, and people of the area danced for the visitors and put on a cockfight. Cornell also visited the monument there to the landing of the first airborne troops to arrive to liberate the islands during World War II.

Mustachioed Actor Zachary Scott Dies

Austin, Tex. (UPI) — Actor Zachary Scott, a dapper, mustachioed star of stage and screen, died Sunday of a brain tumor. He was 51.

Death came to the longtime actor at his mother's sprawling "Sweetbrush" ante-bellum mansion in Austin. Scott was flown to "Sweetbrush" after brain surgery in New York failed to improve his condition.

The incurable tumor forced his retirement earlier this year. He had been bedridden since July and had been in a coma for the past two days.

Scott's acting career began when the fiery, young University of Texas student quit school to work his way to London on a freighter to join a repertory company. At the peak of his career he was seen in a variety of roles, from sophisticated villainy in the 1943 movie "Mask of Dimitros" to a 1964 summer tour with "My Fair Lady."

Survivors include his wife, actress Ruth Ford; two daughters, Miss Shelley Scott of New York City and Mrs. William Crawford of Brooklyn Heights, N.Y., and his mother, Mrs. Z. T. Scott of Austin.

Scott was born in Austin, the son of a prominent physician. He starred in track at the University of Texas, but his principal interest was drama.

At the age of 19 he quit school to go to London where he won the leading juvenile role in "The Outsider," despite his Texas accent.

STORY AT LEFT

ZACHARY SCOTT

Scott became a stalwart of the Warner Bros. stable of stars, playing in 35 movies during the 1940s and 50s. Among them were "The Southerner," "Mildred Pierce" and "Cass Timberlane."

In later years he concentrated on the stage, appearing in "The King and I," "Subway in the Sky," "Requiem for a Nun" and "Tenderloin," among others.

ALL CAN RIDE

San Francisco (UPI) — The American Automobile Association reports it is now possible for every man, woman and child in the United States to ride in a car simultaneously.

Children Frolic Amidst Volcano's Destruction

By CHARLES R. SMITH

Gathered together here in the Taal elementary school, they frolicked about, racing in and out the pouring rain in games of tag, drinking free milk dispensed in waxed paper cups by pretty nurses and chewing on sticky rice candy someone had passed around to some of them.

The youngest of the three, about seven or eight I guessed, lost and paid the penalty. Kneeling, with the patched seat of his short trousers sticking into the air, he lowered his head to the floor and pushed a small coin across the floor with his nose, for a distance of about a foot.

Refugee Children

This was the way it was with the children in one of the refugee centers set up to take care of victims of the violent volcano eruption on nearby Taal Island, which wiped out entire villages and claimed an unknown number of lives.

But to the grownups, it was grim business. What to do? Where to go?

A thin, frail woman, aged beyond her years by labor in the fields and the labor of having and raising a family of nine, tugged at my shirtsleeve while I talked to a doctor of a Veteran's Memorial Hospital medical team.

"Please give me," she said in halting, but clearly enunciated English. "Please give me some money for my family. We have nothing. My daughter. I want to buy her something. Please give me."

Boxes of Food

While I talked to the doctor, soldiers of the Philippine constabulary carried in boxes of food and supplies for the refugees crowded into the classrooms of the U-shaped school building.

Two soldiers carried a stainless steel milk can from room to room, while the nurse handed out cups of milk to grownups, who gulped it down, and to children, who spilled it occasionally while running about.

"We are caring for everybody as well as we can," said Remedios Del Rosario, one of the officials at the refugee center.

"We don't have everything we need. But nobody is going hungry, and everybody is getting sufficient medical care," he added, pointing to a nearby classroom being used as a medical station. "That's very important."

Needs Of Moment

Meeting the needs of the moment was the most important thing for Del Rosario and the others caring for the more than 20,000 refugees in a dozen such centers from the villages blotted out by the eruptions of mighty Taal volcano.

But the future was what was worrying many of the grownups at the refugee centers.

"What are we going to do?" said one of the refugees, Justo Aquino. "Where are we going to go? We cannot stay here."

A radio announcer from a Manila radio network, broadcasting an appeal for donations to meet the immediate needs of the volcano victims, summed up the problems of the future when he said:

"Think of the plight of these people. They awoke in the middle of the night in terror. They rushed from their homes, leaving everything behind. Now their homes are gone. And they cannot go back. It is not as if their homes had been burned.

Kansan At 102nd Meet

Hutchinson, Kan. (AP) — The 102nd state meeting of the Kansas synod of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. will find a native Kansan playing a leading part in its three-day session which opens here Oct. 12.

Building Group Told 'Get Moving'

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, legislative Budget Committee chairman, has urged the Capitol Building Commission to "get moving" on a new state office building.

He said $3 million which the Legislature dedicated for the new structure is certain to be available this biennium and "we ought to use it."

Marvel made the observations following the first formal meeting of the Legislature's Budget Committee since the 1965 session adjourned in August.

Crowded situations on the Statehouse came up while senators conferred with Willard Townsend, director of the new Department of Administrative Services. The department's responsibilities include Statehouse space allocations.

Volcano Action Brings Memories To Lincolnite

When a long-dead volcano erupted last week in the Philippine Islands, Lincolnite Sidney A. Cornell recalled visiting the area in 1953 and dug out his pictures from the visit. The volcano was dormant then, although it had killed 3,000 people in 1917, and people of the area danced for the visitors and put on a cockfight. Cornell also visited the monument there to the landing of the first airborne troops to arrive to liberate the islands during World War II.

ZACHARY SCOTT

Austin, Tex. (UPI) — Actor Zachary Scott, a dapper, mustachioed star of stage and screen, died Sunday of a brain tumor. He was 51.

Death came to the longtime actor at his mother's sprawling "Sweetbrush" ante-bellum mansion in Austin. Scott was flown to "Sweetbrush" after brain surgery in New York failed to improve his condition.

The incurable tumor forced his retirement earlier this year. He had been bedridden since July and had been in a coma for the past two days.

Scott's acting career began when the fiery, young University of Texas student quit school to work his way to London on a freighter to join a repertory company. At the peak of his career he was seen in a variety of roles, from sophisticated villainy in the 1943 movie "Mask of Dimitros" to a 1964 summer tour with "My Fair Lady."

Survivors include his wife, actress Ruth Ford; two daughters, Miss Shelley Scott of New York City and Mrs. William Crawford of Brooklyn Heights, N.Y., and his mother, Mrs. Z. T. Scott of Austin.

Scott was born in Austin, the son of a prominent physician. He starred in track at the University of Texas, but his principal interest was drama.

At the age of 19 he quit school to go to London where he won the leading juvenile role in "The Outsider," despite his Texas accent.

Scott became a stalwart of the Warner Bros. stable of stars, playing in 35 movies during the 1940s and 50s. Among them were "The Southerner," "Mildred Pierce" and "Cass Timberlane."

In later years he concentrated on the stage, appearing in "The King and I," "Subway in the Sky," "Requiem for a Nun" and "Tenderloin," among others.

ALL CAN RIDE

San Francisco (UPI) — The American Automobile Association reports it is now possible for every man, woman and child in the United States to ride in a car simultaneously.

Children Frolic Amidst Volcano's Destruction

By CHARLES R. SMITH

Gathered together here in the Taal elementary school, they frolicked about, racing in and out the pouring rain in games of tag, drinking free milk dispensed in waxed paper cups by pretty nurses and chewing on sticky rice candy someone had passed around to some of them.

The youngest of the three, about seven or eight I guessed, lost and paid the penalty. Kneeling, with the patched seat of his short trousers sticking into the air, he lowered his head to the floor and pushed a small coin across the floor with his nose, for a distance of about a foot.

Refugee Children

This was the way it was with the children in one of the refugee centers set up to take care of victims of the violent volcano eruption on nearby Taal Island, which wiped out entire villages and claimed an unknown number of lives.

But to the grownups, it was grim business. What to do? Where to go?

A thin, frail woman, aged beyond her years by labor in the fields and the labor of having and raising a family of nine, tugged at my shirtsleeve while I talked to a doctor of a Veteran's Memorial Hospital medical team.

"Please give me," she said in halting, but clearly enunciated English. "Please give me some money for my family. We have nothing. My daughter. I want to buy her something. Please give me."

Boxes of Food

While I talked to the doctor, soldiers of the Philippine constabulary carried in boxes of food and supplies for the refugees crowded into the classrooms of the U-shaped school building.

Two soldiers carried a stainless steel milk can from room to room, while the nurse handed out cups of milk to grownups, who gulped it down, and to children, who spilled it occasionally while running about.

"We are caring for everybody as well as we can," said Remedios Del Rosario, one of the officials at the refugee center.

"We don't have everything we need. But nobody is going hungry, and everybody is getting sufficient medical care," he added, pointing to a nearby classroom being used as a medical station. "That's very important."

Needs Of Moment

Meeting the needs of the moment was the most important thing for Del Rosario and the others caring for the more than 20,000 refugees in a dozen such centers from the villages blotted out by the eruptions of mighty Taal volcano.

But the future was what was worrying many of the grownups at the refugee centers.

"What are we going to do?" said one of the refugees, Justo Aquino. "Where are we going to go? We cannot stay here."

A radio announcer from a Manila radio network, broadcasting an appeal for donations to meet the immediate needs of the volcano victims, summed up the problems of the future when he said:

"Think of the plight of these people. They awoke in the middle of the night in terror. They rushed from their homes, leaving everything behind. Now their homes are gone. And they cannot go back. It is not as if their homes had been burned.

"If that was all, they could go back to the lot and sit and think. But this is worse. Their homes are gone, the land is buried under mud and ash. They cannot go back."

'Che' Guevara Going To 'New Fields Of Battle'

Miami (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro said Sunday night his righthand man, Industry Minister Ernesto (Che) Guevara, has quit the Cuban Communist Party, given up his citizenship and left "for new fields of battle."

But Castro still did not reveal where Guevara, missing from public view for nearly seven months, had gone.

The bearded premier, in a rambling radio-television address in Havana monitored here, reiterated his willingness to allow Cubans to come to the United States. But he sharply rejected President Johnson's plan to let the International Red Cross handle the exodus.

All arrangements, he said, must be worked out through the Swiss embassy.

Reads Letter

Castro read a hand-written letter from the Argentine-born Guevara.

The letter was not dated, but it was written in Havana and was handed to Castro on April 1—six months ago — with instructions to be read at the time Castro "considered best."

Guevara's wife, Aleida March, was present in the Charlie Chaplin Theater in Havana as Castro spoke to his communist nation. Her presence indicated that Guevara and Castro had parted amicably.

In Guevara's letter, he promised "to fight against imperialism wherever it exists," according to Castro's report.

Castro did not explain where Guevara went or exactly why.

To Permit Fighters

Directing his words specifically to President Johnson, Castro also announced he will permit Communist Cubans "who ask permission" to fight against the United States in Viet Nam and the Congo.

He said this action would offset the action of "those who want to go to live with the imperialists and those who are sometimes recruited by the imperialists to fight in Viet Nam and the Congo."

Castro addressed the Cuban people at the installation of a new 100-man central committee to rule Cuba under his direction.

The creation of the new top committee, replacing a 25-man group, constituted a major reshuffle. Castro emphasized it by announcing that the Soviet-style United Party of the Socialist Revolution (PURS)—the name used for his party—has now been changed to the Communist Party.

Two Papers Merged

He also announced the party's two main newspapers, Revolucion and Hoy, are being abolished and replaced by a new organ entitled Gramma, the name of the boat in which he and 81 other revolutionaries landed in Cuba in 1957 from Mexico.

Castro made a new three-point proposal to Johnson for free travel between Cuba and the United States for Cubans in each country who want to visit relatives in the other, and also for Americans who want to visit Cuba.

Acceptance or rejection of this new proposal by Johnson apparently would not affect the carrying out of Castro's original offer to permit Cubans to go to the United

Fidel Appoints Woman As Envoy To England

Havana (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro has appointed a woman as Ambassador to Britain replacing Luis Ricardo Alonso who defected last month.

She is Alba Grinan, 39, who has been head of the United Nations department of the Cuban foreign ministry and three times a delegate to U.N. General Assemblies.

Informed sources regarded the appointment of Miss Grinan as a prime example of the theory that the Castro regime is running short of technically capable people it can trust out of the country.

Miss Grinan was born in Santiago de Cuba, was graduated from Havana University and studied teaching at the Sorbonne in Paris.

The sources said Castro is filling diplomatic vacancies with persons considered politically safe instead of strictly on a basis of their technical qualifications.

There were unofficial reports that since the defection of Alonso the Castro government has brought back from London a number of embassy personnel for investigation.

Arab Mobs Burn Down Religious Establishments

Aden (AP) — Arab mobs burned down a synagogue and Jewish bakery Sunday after gutting a Protestant church and destroying a Roman Catholic newspaper office Saturday.

The mobs rushed into the streets when British authorities relaxed a stringent curfew long enough for residents to buy food. They overturned and burned cars belonging to Jews and Indians.

No one was injured in the attacks on the Christian and Jewish religious establishments.

Crater Curfew

Dozens of military vehicles rumbled through the dust and scores of armed patrols scoured the streets of the crater district, an ancient sector where 90,000 persons live ringed by the jagged rims of extinct volcanoes. The curfew was limited to crater.

Police said 800 persons have been arrested, but most have been released.

The general strike was called by the trade union congress to protest Britain's presence here and fight last week suspension of Aden's constitution by the British government. Britain acted to control terrorism in Aden and the surrounding South Arabian Federation.

Food-Buying Break

Authorities said the curfew, reimposed after the three-hour food-buying break, would probably continue in crater.

As the curfew was lifted in the heavily patrolled district at noon, a shouting Arab crowd broke down the door of the Jewish synagogue, poured gasoline inside and set it afire.

Worshipers poking through the mess of wreckage and sodden and burned clothes donated for charity, said another synagogue a few blocks away was also set afire. But police had no reports on this.

National guard troops from South Arabia's federal army opened fire when the crowd refused to disperse and shot at soldiers, the government reported. One demonstrator and a national guardsmen were wounded.

Form Agitation

Senior Supt. Hugh Bailey, of the special armed police said: "We let them out to replenish their food supplies and then they form into agitation groups. We break up troublemakers and then they reform again."

The rest of Aden was quiet with no curfew regulations. Troops, however, were posted in the streets.

In the Maalla district, a residential area a hand grenade, thrown from a car speeding through the main street, injured a British serviceman, his wife and their son, aged about 10.

British army officials said organized violence apears to have been stirred by the Egyptian-backed National Liberation Front. Crowds chanted for President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic. Trucks and helicopters from the British aircraft carrier Eagle ferried in more than 500 troops to restore order.

The headquarters of the special armed police said 248 people were arrested Saturday, many of them citizens of neighboring Yemen who are working in Aden.

Directing his words specifically to President Johnson, Castro also announced he will permit Communist Cubans "who ask permission" to fight against the United States in Viet Nam and the Congo.

He said this action would offset the action of "those who want to go to live with the imperialists and those who are sometimes recruited by the imperialists to fight in Viet Nam and the Congo."

Castro addressed the Cuban people at the installation of a new 100-man central committee to rule Cuba under his direction.

The creation of the new top committee, replacing a 25-man group, constituted a major reshuffle. Castro emphasized it by announcing that the Soviet-style United Party of the Socialist Revolution (PURS)—the name used for his party—has now been changed to the Communist Party.

Two Papers Merged

He also announced the party's two main newspapers, Revolucion and Hoy, are being abolished and replaced by a new organ entitled Gramma, the name of the boat in which he and 81 other revolutionaries landed in Cuba in 1957 from Mexico.

Castro made a new three-point proposal to Johnson for free travel between Cuba and the United States for Cubans in each country who want to visit relatives in the other, and also for Americans who want to visit Cuba.

Acceptance or rejection of this new proposal by Johnson apparently would not affect the carrying out of Castro's original offer to permit Cubans to go to the United

Fidel Appoints Woman As Envoy To England

Havana (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro has appointed a woman as Ambassador to Britain replacing Luis Ricardo Alonso who defected last month

She is Alba Grinan, 39, who has been head of the United Nations department of the Cuban foreign ministry and three times a delegate to U.N. General Assemblies.

Informed sources regarded the appointment of Miss Grinan as a prime example of the theory that the Castro regime is running short of technically capable people it can trust out of the country.

Miss Grinan was born in Santiago de Cuba, was graduated from Havana University and studied teaching at the Sorbonne in Paris

The sources said Castro is filling diplomatic vacancies with persons considered politically safe instead of strictly on a basis of their technical qualifications.

There were unofficial reports that since the defection of Alonso the Castro government has brought back from London a number of embassy personnel for investigation.

Arab Mobs Burn Down Religious Establishments

Aden (AP) — Arab mobs burned down a synagogue and Jewish bakery Sunday after gutting a Protestant church and destroying a Roman Catholic newspaper office Saturday.

The mobs rushed into the streets when British authorities relaxed a stringent curfew long enough for residents to buy food They overturned and burned cars belonging to Jews and Indians

No one was injured in the attacks on the Christian and Jewish religious establishments

Crater Curfew

Dozens of military vehicles rumbled through the dust and scores of armed patrols scoured the streets of the crater district, an ancient sector where 90,000 persons live ringed by the jagged rims of extinct volcanoes The curfew was limited to crater

Police said 800 persons have been arrested, but most have been released.

The general strike was called by the trade union congress to protest Britain's presence here and fight last week suspension of Aden's constitution by the British government Britain acted to control terrorism in Aden and the surrounding South Arabian Federation.

Food-Buying Break

Authorities said the curfew, reimposed after the three-hour food-buying break, would probably continue in crater

As the curfew was lifted in the heavily patrolled district at noon, a shouting Arab crowd broke down the door of the Jewish synagogue, poured gasoline inside and set it afire.

Worshipers poking through the mess of wreckage and sodden and burned clothes donated for charity, said another synagogue a few blocks away was also set afire. But police had no reports on this.

National guard troops from South Arabia's federal army opened fire when the crowd refused to disperse and shot at soldiers, the government reported. One demonstrator and a national guardsmen were wounded.

Form Agitation

Senior Supt. Hugh Bailey, of the special armed police said "We let them out to replenish their food supplies and then they form into agitation groups. We break up troublemakers and then they reform again "

The rest of Aden was quiet with no curfew regulations. Troops, however, were posted in the streets

In the Maalla district, a residential area a hand grenade, thrown from a car speeding through the main street, injured a British serviceman, his wife and their son, aged about 10.

British army officials said organized violence apears to have been stirred by the Egyptian-backed National Liberation Front. Crowds chanted for President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic. Trucks and helicopters from the British aircraft carrier Eagle ferried in more than 500 troops to restore order

The headquarters of the special armed police said 248 people were arrested Saturday many of them citizens of neighboring Yemen who are working in Aden.

ENGAGED to Bradford Cook

Of much more than casual interest to Lincoln is the engagement of Miss Laura Shedd Armour, daughter of A. Watson Armour, III, of Chicago, and the late Mrs. Armour, to Bradford Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Cook of Lincoln, which was announced by the bride-elect's father when he was a party host at his home on Sunday evening.

The wedding is planned for January.

Miss Armour, who was graduated from Miss Porter's School and who attended Bennett Junior College, Millbrook, N.Y., and the University of Geneva in Switzerland, made her debut at the Passavant Cotillion in 1958. Since then she has been careering in Chicago.

Mr. Cook is a graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy, at Exeter, N.H., and of Stanford University. He received his law degree at the University of Nebraska and now is engaged in the practice of law in Chicago.

The bride-elect's paternal grandparents are Mrs. A. Watson Armour, and the late Mr. Armour; her maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schweppe, and her great-grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. John Shedd.

This morning in Suburbia there is news of football spirit rousers who have entertained guests in the city for the game.

BETHANY TERRACE

The Nebraska football game Saturday afternoon attracted a portion of its audience from a small town northwest of Lincoln—Stanton. These fans came by the bus and car load as a part of a Bill Johnson caravan, in honor of their hometown star.

Sunday, Sept. 12, was a special day for someone else in the Lincoln Heights area. Miss Vicke Underhill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Underhill, left for nurses' training at St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing in Kansas City, Mo. Classes began the following day.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I don't know whether you'll remember me, but I met you while I was a patient at the Institute Of Living in Hartford, when Dr. Zeller took you on a tour of the facilities. I recall how kind you were to me, and the encouragement you gave me both verbally and in the letters you wrote to me afterwards. You made me feel that you really cared about what happened to me. That's why I'm writing to tell you I've been medically discharged.

There were some rough times, Abby. God only knows how rough they were, but I never "let go" because I knew that my parents, friends, doctors and people like you were pulling for me. It may sound corny, but when a person is in a situation like I was in, it's important to know that people care. Sometimes the patient may act disinterested or even hostile, but he is just testing to see if the other person likes him well enough to accept him as he is.

I don't mind if you print this, Abby, to let friends and relatives know how important they are to a patient's progress. There are still many prejudices against those who have been hospitalized for a mental or emotional illness. I want people who have only heard of mental illness to know that we are like everyone else: we aren't possessed of evil spirits. We are "ill," just as if we had a broken leg or appendicitis. And most important of all, WE CAN BE CURED. I am now working and hope to go to New York and get my degree. Right now I am adjusting to being on the "outside." I know I am going to make it, Abby. Thank you for everything. And I sincerely mean it.

YOUR FRIEND IN HARTFORD

DEAR FRIEND: And thank YOU for sharing your victory with me, and for permitting me to share it with others. You'll never know the number of people you've inspired and encouraged by your fine letter.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I was in a tough spot financially and stood to lose everything I had. My lawyer advised me to put everything in my wife's name. This was only a legal technicality to protect us both. Of course, I followed my lawyer's advice. Now the emergency is over and I want to change everything back the way it was, but my wife doesn't want it changed. She has never worked a day in her life in my business (or anywhere else, for that matter), and I can't see where she is entitled to have all our assets in HER name. Is there anything I can do about this?

INDEPENDENTLY
BROKE

DEAR BROKE: Oddly enough, again you need the advice of a lawyer. And maybe a marriage counselor, too.

DEAR ABBY: Please put this in your column for all girls who are "waiting" for a married man. I waited four years. I was sure he would marry me if he could only get his wife to give him a divorce. I felt certain that if I went to her and explained everything I could get her to change her mind. Well, I called her on the phone and she very graciously invited me to her home to "talk things over."

I told her how much in love we were and begged her not to stand in our way ary longer as I had waited four years. All the while, she sat there as cool as a cucumber. Then she asked me if I wanted the letters, birthday cards and valentines I had sent her husband at his place of business. She had them all tied together with a lovely pink bow. I won't go into detail, but I am now living in another state. I am 33 years of age and much wiser. If a married man even so much as smiles at me, I will laugh right in his face. If I live to be 100, Abby, I will never forget how cheap and small I felt while his wife was the perfect lady.

I recall how kind you were to me, and the encouragement you gave me both verbally and in the letters you wrote to me afterwards. You made me feel that you really cared about what happened to me. That's why I'm writing to tell you I've been medically discharged.

There were some rough times, Abby. God only knows how rough they were, but I never "let go" because I knew that my parents, friends, doctors and people like you were pulling for me. It may sound corny, but when a person is in a situation like I was in, it's important to know that people care. Sometimes the patient may act disinterested or even hostile, but he is just testing to see if the other person likes him well enough to accept him as he is.

I don't mind if you print this, Abby, to let friends and relatives know how important they are to a patient's progress. There are still many prejudices against those who have been hospitalized for a mental or emotional illness. I want people who have only heard of mental illness to know that we are like everyone else: we aren't possessed of evil spirits. We are "ill," just as if we had a broken leg or appendicitis. And most important of all, WE CAN BE CURED. I am now working and hope to go to New York and get my degree. Right now I am adjusting to being on the "outside." I know I am going to make it, Abby. Thank you for everything. And I sincerely mean it.

YOUR FRIEND IN HARTFORD

DEAR FRIEND: And thank YOU for sharing your victory with me, and for permitting me to share it with others. You'll never know the number of people you've inspired and encouraged by your fine letter.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I was in a tough spot financially and stood to lose everything I had. My lawyer advised me to put everything in my wife's name. This was only a legal technicality to protect us both. Of course, I followed my lawyer's advice. Now the emergency is over and I want to change everything back the way it was, but my wife doesn't want it changed. She has never worked a day in her life in my business (or anywhere else, for that matter), and I can't see where she is entitled to have all our assets in HER name. Is there anything I can do about this?

BROKE

DEAR BROKE: Oddly enough, again you need the advice of a lawyer. And maybe a marriage counselor, too.

DEAR ABBY: Please put this in your column for all girls who are "waiting" for a married man. I waited four years. I was sure he would marry me if he could only get his wife to give him a divorce. I felt certain that if I went to her and explained everything I could get her to change her mind. Well, I called her on the phone and she very graciously invited me to her home to "talk things over."

I told her how much in love we were and begged her not to stand in our way any longer as I had waited four years. All the while, she sat there as cool as a cucumber. Then she asked me if I wanted the letters, birthday cards and valentines I had sent her husband at his place of business. She had them all tied together with a lovely pink bow. I won't go into detail, but I am now living in another state. I am 33 years of age and much wiser. If a married man even so much as smiles at me, I will laugh right in his face. If I live to be 100, Abby, I will never forget how cheap and small I felt while his wife was the perfect lady.

BRIDES chose autumn ceremonies

The candlelighted chancel of St. Paul United Church of Christ was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums for the wedding of Miss Kathryn Berg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Berg, and Gary Albers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hoover of Roca, on Sunday evening, Oct. 3. The 7:30 o'clock service was solemnized by the Rev. Arthur G. Crisp, and Mrs. Harold Raymer, organist, played the wedding music. The vocalist was Mrs. Duane Krecklow.

Wearing a long-skirted frock of delustered satin in gold and carrying gold-toned chrysanthemums was the maid of honor, Miss Emily Berg. Costumed identically in autumn green were Miss Margie Berg, Miss Ruth Stahly of Milford, and Miss Marie Van Andel, Pleasant Dale, the bridesmaids; and the bridesmatrons, Mrs. Neil Berg and Mrs. Bob Scheidt.

Carter Hoover of Roca, served as best man, and the corps of ushers included Jim Tebo, Bennet; Edwin Moormeier, Jr., Roca; Duane Krecklow, Neil Berg and Merlyn Berg.

The bride's gown was fashioned of white Chantilly lace and silk organza. Iridescent sequins touched the sabrina neckline of the lace basque, and the lace was repeated in a wide front panel on the bouffant organza skirt, which was completed at the back by tiers of lace ruffles. A single rose of jeweled satin held her veil of illusion, and she carried an arrangement of pale yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Albers will live in Lincoln, at 543 No. 27th.

For the marriage of Miss Bonita Willmeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Willmeth of Smith Center, Kan., to James Dale Nothnagel, son of Mrs. Walter E. Pickering of Spokane, Wash., and of Otto Nothnagel, Lincoln, which was solemnized Sunday afternoon, Oct. 3, lighted white candles and white Fuji chrysanthemums appointed the Methodist Church at Smith Center. The Rev. Gilbert Peters read the lines of the service at 3 o'clock, and the wedding music was played by Jon Sims, organist. The vocal soloist was Miss Charleen Watts of Lincoln.

As her sister's maid of honor, Miss Arleta Willmeth wore an Empire frock of mint green peau de soie, and carried a cascade of white chrysanthemums.

Robert Jones served as best man, and seating the guests were Jim Schroeder and Mickey Snyder, all of Lincoln.

The bride's gown of white delustered satin was designed in the period mode. Fitted, elbow sleeves and a rounding neckline accented the bodice, which was narrowly cuffed at the high waistline above the slim skirt, complemented by a panel train of the satin. Her silk issusion veil was held by a crown of satin and illusion roses, and she carried an arrangement of white roses.

Here is the story of these furs: Furriers from time to time get "stuck" with furs unclaimed from storage. Pachman Furs has a large group of furs consigned by a large furrier which will go at fantastic prices in the Lincoln area. Also many one-of-a-kind furs from regular stock will go at very low prices. Imagine buying a nearly new fur stole for only $15.00 and up and fur collars from $5.00 to $10.00 & up. Many of these furs are expensive furs and are being sold at ridiculous prices. These furs really look NEW but must be labelel "second-hand used." If you want to buy a "good" $15.00 and up bargain in a fur you'd better come early. Fur Coats, Jackets, Scarfs and Stoles will go at low, lov prices. A deposit will hold you layaway. Furs on sale for limite time, open from 9 to 5:30. Opening lead — four of spades.

One of the really great falsecards of all time occurred in a home game in New York some years ago. Star of the hand was a man named Sidney Satenstein, an enthusiastic rubber bridge player nationally unknown.

Victim of the falsecard was John Rau (South), well known New York expert. Rau ducked the spade lead, losing to the king, and was forced to play the queen and ace together on the spade return.

Rau could count seven sure tricks — four hearts and three aces — and the fate of the hand appeared to rest entirely on finding East with the king of diamonds. If Satenstein had the king, Rau could assure nine tricks by taking two diamond finesses.

But Rau has been around a long time and he was not content to settle for just a 50 per cent chance that the finesse would succeed. He saw that he could increase his chances considerably by playing a club first.

Accordingly, at trick three, Rau led a low club from dummy, whereupon Satenstein smoothly played the king!

Rau took the ace, and, after congratulating himself upon his sagacity on having played the club suit first, he led the nine of clubs and finessed. It never occurred to him that Satenstein might have started with the K-J alone. He naturaly thought that West had the J-8-2 originally and that East had the singleton king.

Satenstein swooped on the trick like a bird of prey and returned a spade. West thereupon cashed three spade tricks and South went down one, losing four spades and a club.

It was the kind of hand where the victim rejoices together with the victor, and to this day Rau takes pleasure in recounting the giant hoax prerpetrated against him.

Had Satenstein made the normal play of the jack instead of the king, Rau would have been forced to take two diamond finesses and he would have made four notrump.

Wedding

The wedding of Miss Donita Marie Parde of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Parde of Sterling, and David Lee Podtburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Podtburg, Adams, took place Sunday evening, Oct. 3, at the American Lutheran Church in Sterling. The ceremony was solemnized at 7 o'clock by the Rev. Kenneth Rust.

The attendants, who wore long-skirted frocks in the rose tone and carried white Fuji chrysanthemums, were Miss Betty Ann Parde, Sterling, the maid of honor; and the bridesmatrons, Mrs. Gary Behrens, Sterling; and Mrs. Kent Krause, Adams.

Kent Krause of Adams, served as best man, and the ushers were Gary Behrens and Melvin Parde, Sterling; Clayton Hesser, Cortland; and Ron Beck, Lincoln.

The bride appeared in a gown of white Chantilly lace. The sabrina neckline of the long-sleeved basque was highlighted by pearl and sequin embroidery, and the full skirt was designed with a back panel of ruffled tiers which continued into a chapel train. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and stephanotis.

Afternoon Service

Miss Bonnie Jean Garrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Garrett of Burchard, became the bride of Dr. Keith W. Shuey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Shuey of Crab Orchard, at an afternoon ceremony solemnized Sunday, Oct. 3.

Peau de soie in the topaz tone was chosen for the sheath frocks of the attendants, Miss Marie Garrett of Lincoln, who was her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Donna Lavicky, Seward, and Mrs. Kirk Hester, Crete.

Dean Allen Shuey of Crab Orchard, served his brother as best man, and the groomsmen were Loren Steiner, Burchard; William Steiner, Lewiston; Jerome Garrels, Fairbury; and Dr. Jerry Reed, Lincoln.

The bride wore for her wedding a gown of delustered satin in traditional white. Seed pearls and crystal beading embroidered in a rose motif patterned the Empire waist of the bodice, which was contoured by a bateau neckline, and the slender lines of the skirt were emphasized by an aisle-wide detachable train extending to cotillion length. She carried a white orchid showered with white roses.

Dr. and Mrs. Shuey will make their home at 2010 So. 12th, in Lincoln, where Dr. Shuey is resident in surgery at St. Elizabet Hospital. A graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, he is a member of Phi Chi medical fraternity. Mrs. Shuey is a member of the nursing staff at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Americans Like LBJ, 2-1, But Majority Have Specific Criticisms

By LOUIS HARRIS

One does not have to sample a great deal of public opinion these days to find out that President Lyndon B. Johnson stands high in the eyes of his fellow countrymen. By a 2 to 1 majority, people approve of the over-all job he is doing. And for every person who is critical of the President personally, there are three who praise him as a man.

Harris

However, despite the dominant glow across America about its chief executive, majorities of the public register sharp, specific criticisms of the President — especially about some aspects of his personal behavior:

—69% rate Johnson a "wheeler-dealer" politician.

—54% feel he is too touchy about criticism.

—52% have the impression that he drives too fast.

—Appreciable minorities also say Johnson doesn't like to share credit with others (44%), shoots from the hip in making decisions (42%) and managed to become rich through questionable means (32%).

When all of the public's comments about Johnson are added up, however, the positive attributes of his personality vastly outweigh the negative. He is rated by 87% of the people, as a "doer—a man who gets things done." In addition, 82% of the public say the President understands the problems of business and almost as high a number, 79%, believe he also understands the problems of labor. In modern times, some chief executives have managed to win the confidence of labor and others have had a reputation as friends of business, but President Johnson is in the remarkable position of being known as a friend of both.

Down-To-Earth

The President's down-to-earth manner and the "sincere way he talks" also receive uniformly high marks from the American people, scoring over 80% approval.

Criticism of the President is lowest among people with only a modest education but it mounts to rather sizeable proportions among those who have been to college. This pattern is more pronounced than the normal political biases of these groups in our society.

For example, in judging his over-all sincerity, 92% of people who went no further than eighth grade in school praise the President as against only 62% of college graduates. Concerning the charge that Mr. Johnson doesn't share credit with others—only 39% of the less well-educated believe it, compared with 51% of those who went to college.

Similarly, 83% of those with an eighth grade education or less believe he feels deeply about discrimination against Negroes while only 65% of those who attended college accept that view. And, while 78% of the college people think the President is a "wheeler-dealer politician," only 62% of the grade school educated people think that.

People's Judgments

As with nearly all their Presidents, the American people express, full, and at times, rather pithy judgments. Typical of the praise for Johnson was that from a 40-year-old landscape gardener in Everett, Mass., who said, "He's a gentleman, but down-to-earth and real." A retired man in Kansas City added, "He's the goldarnest doer I ever saw. He knows what he wants, keeps at it all the time, and doesn't stop till he gets what he wants—like the way he handled the steel strike."

A young, 22-year-old nurse in Blue Springs, Neb., said, "I like the way he is so free and comes out and tells you just what he's thinking and what's going on over in Viet Nam in newscasts and on TV."

But the critics are articulate, too. Typical was the 33-year-old wife of an executive in Pasadena, Calif., "He's too homey in speech and manner. I find it difficult to listen to him. He's like a Great White Father talking down to his children, and I feel he is not always telling us the truth." A 25-year-old salesman in Houston added, "Everything he does, he does with political overtones. He's too much of a politician's politician and so I distrust him."

When asked what things they especially like about Mr. Johnson, 1 person in every 4 said that he is a hard-working man who gets things done and that he is doing the best job he can. Almost as many (23%) said he was a friendly, warm personality.

When asked what they especially disliked about him, 1 person in 10 said he is a wheeler-dealer operator and almost as many said his administration is spending too much money.

Most Striking

The most striking part of this public profile of President Johnson is that it differs so radically from that of his two predecessors, Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy. Fully 64% of all the volunteered remarks about Johnson center on his record as President. In the case of both Presidents Kennedy and Eisenhower, it was just the opposite, with their personalities far out-distancing their records with the public.

Johnson's singular impact with the American people is as a doer. This, of course, is in the classic political vein and answers the time-honored cry on the part of the public, "What have you done for me lately?" Implicitly, President Johnson seems to evoke a rather spontaneous and widespread, "Plenty."

A carefully drawn cross section of the public was asked: "I want to read you a series of things that have been said about President Johnson. For each, tell me if you tend to agree more or disagree more with this statement:"

A close-to-home tour for
OMAHA and LINCOLN

Along the Wide Missouri to the Land of Lewis and Clark

This 365-mile motor loop from Omaha takes you through the scenic and historic Missouri River country explored by Lewis and Clark some 160 years ago, past places where Indians and fur trappers roamed and fought, to forest and lake country where wildlife thrives amidst natural beauty.

HERE is a fascinating excursion for a day or leisurely weekend that is sure to mean enjoyment for you and your children. You'll follow former stagecoach routes and pioneer paths like the famous Overland Trail. You'll see peaceful forests and sunny lakes, rolling prairies and dramatic river bluffs. Visit colleges, historic museums, former missions, battlefields, a territorial capital and picturesque river towns. Show your youngsters what the past was like. It will help them become better citizens in the future.

So pick a good day and pack a picnic lunch. Collect your fishing gear, camera and plenty of film and be on your way.

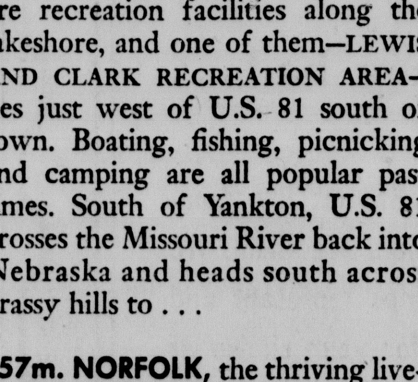
0m. OMAHA. From downtown, drive north on U.S. 73 which heads up 30th Street and bears away from the Missouri River. South of Fort Calhoun, river bluffs hide pioneer fort sites, including places used by Lewis and Clark in 1804. You might like to make a short side trip to the site of FORT ATKINSON, between U.S. 73 and the Missouri.

25m. BLAIR, above the mighty river, is a trade center for Washington County. It is the home of DANA COLLEGE, and also the headquarters for the PAPIO SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT, first of its kind in the state. Farming country to the north blends into former Indian camping grounds around TEKAMAH where Reservoir Hill affords broad panoramas of the Missouri Valley. Omaha Indian village and battle sites lie just a step away. Near GOLDEN SPRINGS, ridges mark the old stagecoach road. Continue north on U.S. 73 to . . .

58m. DECATUR. River traditions are clearly reflected in the fact that this town has been moved frequently to keep pace with the changing course of the Missouri. You may wish to take a short side trip across the river into Iowa for spots like BLUE LAKE and LEWIS AND CLARK STATE PARK. Pastimes here include swimming, fishing, boating, camping and picnicking. From Decatur, U.S. 73 angles northwestward over wooded hills and bluffs through the old Omaha and Winnebago Indian domains. Little spur roads lead to legend-shrouded high points like BLACKBIRD HILL, former bandit hideouts, remains of frontier homes and missions, and geological formations like BIG BEAR HOLLOW that looks like a rugged volcanic crater. Continue north on U.S. 73 to the Junction with U.S. 77 at Winnebago. Continue north over the hills to . . .

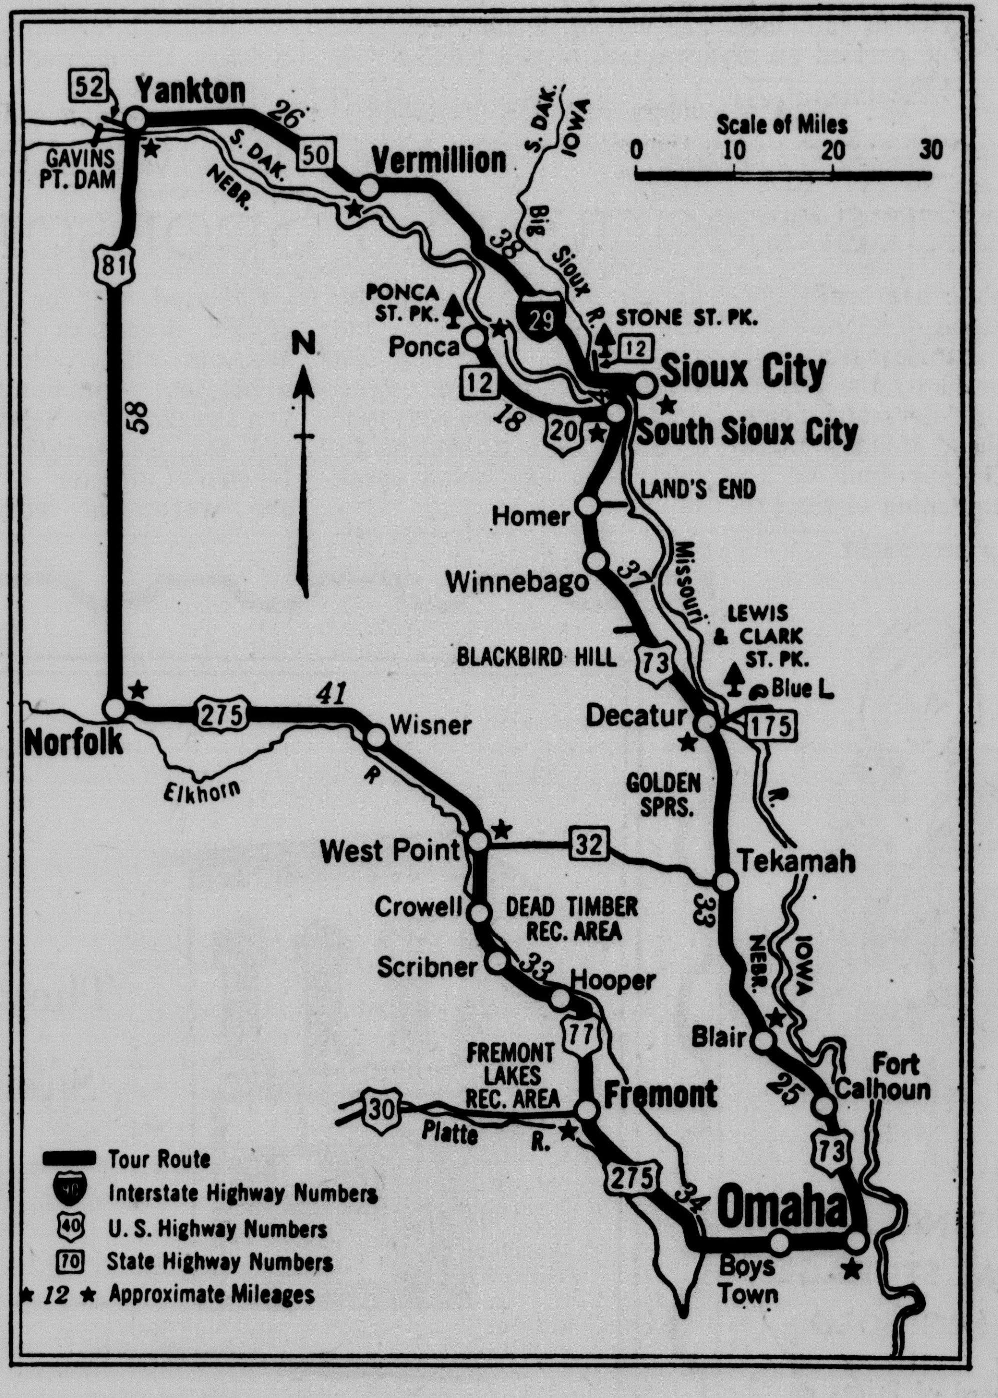
81m. HOMER. From this small farm settlement, a side trip eastward leads to LAND'S END, some 500 feet above the Missouri. Here Indians used to pray for good harvests and stage sacrificial dances. At South Sioux City, take U.S. 20 and Route 12 north to PONCA and PONCA STATE PARK. The park's an especially good family spot with foot trails leading to fine Missouri River views, plenty of chances to see fossils, a wide variety of trees, birds, oppossum, racoon, deer and fox, and to swim, picnic or camp out. Return to South Sioux City and cross the Missouri into Iowa.

135m. SIOUX CITY, where the Big Sioux River joins the Missouri, is a salient trade and shipping hub for livestock, grain and meat producers. It is also a college community. One of its nicest parks is GRANDVIEW, having an outdoor music pavilion in a natural amphitheater. Just northwest of town on Route 12 lies 875-acre STONE STATE PARK covering a rugged, wooded section boasting of top-notch view points, numerous hiking and bridle trails. Here you'll find excellent opportunities for picnicking, camping and fishing. From Sioux City, take Interstate 29 northwest into South Dakota. After 30 miles, turn west on Route 50. At VERMILLION, overlooking the red-banked Vermillion River, you may visit the MUSEUM at the UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH DAKOTA with its impressive collection of Indian relics. Continue on Route 50 for twenty-six miles.



199m. YANKTON, oldest community in the Dakota Territory, was chosen as the Territorial Capital in 1861. You can see some of the early buildings as well as YANKTON COLLEGE, founded 20 years later. About four miles upstream on Route 52 stands GAVINS POINT DAM, forming LEWIS AND CLARK LAKE. There are recreation facilities along the lakeshore, and one of them—LEWIS AND CLARK RECREATION AREA—lies just west of U.S. 81 south of town. Boating, fishing, picnicking and camping are all popular pastimes. South of Yankton, U.S. 81 crosses the Missouri River back into Nebraska and heads south across grassy hills to . . .

257m. NORFOLK, the thriving livestock center among the low hills of the Elkhorn River Valley. Some of the structures built by German pioneers still remain, and the NORFOLK HISTORICAL MUSEUM contains interesting relics of the region. City parks like JOHNSON and CENTRAL add both beauty and outdoor recreation. From Norfolk, head due east on U.S. 275 through hog-raising country to Wisner, then southeast along the Elkhorn River to . . .



298m. WEST POINT. In the old days Indian scares were common in this sawmill town. Today the community is a center for surrounding livestock operations. A little less than 10 miles south, near Crowell, lies DEAD TIMBER RECREATION AREA where your family can enjoy fishing, boating, picnicking, camping or hunting in season. The tour route continues on through Scribner and Hooper to join U.S. 77 twelve miles north of . . .

331m. FREMONT. Formerly an Overland Trail station, Fremont is noted as the state's hybrid seed corn center as well as a hub for such endeavors as poultry raising, meat packing, butter making, flour milling, soybean processing and soup making. It's also the home of MIDLAND LUTHERAN COLLEGE. For outdoor diversions, FREMONT LAKES RECREATION AREA, three miles west via U.S. 30, features an appealing section where one-fourth of its 800 acres is covered with water. Fishing for trout, bass and catfish is excellent. Along the shore, you can picnic, camp or hunt in season. From Fremont, U.S. 275 heads south along the Platte River, then swings away to the east and goes past BOYS TOWN to . . .

MUSTANGS HUMBLE COMETS, 48-6

Miscues Hurt Lincoln Squad

. . . IN WILD SECOND HALF

With hardly a full team to operate with, Lincoln crumbled to a second-half Omaha machine and lost its fourth Professional Football League of America game of the season, 48-6, at Seacrest Field Sunday.

Thirteen Comets sat out a majority of the second half after a meager crowd of 1,500 had been treated to a 14-6 first half show, and thoughts were roaming around that the Comets would avenge the 48-21, pasting the Mustangs delivered in the opening game.

But the first time Omaha gained second-half possession, it rolled 87 yards for a 21-6 lead—Mike Dugan's 28-yard pass to Simmons good for the score.

The Mustangs were stymied at the nine the next time with the ball, but scored each of the three other times it moved and had a 59-yard touchdown interception runback from Bill Stangerone to boot.

Interceptions and fumbles cost Lincoln heartily all the way. Each time the Comets fumbled or Doug Tucker threw an intercepted pass, Omaha turned the gift into a touchdown.

A Tucker thrown pass gave Omaha the ball at the Lincoln 32 in the first quarter. Four plays later the Mustangs scored the first touchdown, with Dugan dragging a Comet into the end zone from six yards out.

The Mustangs cornered a wondering Tucker back at his two moments later, forcing a fumble. Emil Radick scored with a short plunge over the middle for the first half Omaha scoring.

Lincoln looked quite promising in the first half, scoring on a 15-play, 72-yard march for its score. Mixing running and passing, the Comets marched to the one where Byron McCane bolted through for the score Rod Franz' kick was blocked.

Tucker's 13-yard heave to Dave Martin, a reserve in for injured Preston Love, for a first down at the Omaha 14 was the key play of the drive.

Aside from his giving the ball up, Tucker threw 39 times and hit 21 for 285 yards for the Comets, now 1-4.

Browns Turn Errors Into TDs

. . . TO DEFEAT PHILADELPHIA EAGLES, 35-17

By United Press International

The National Football League champion Cleveland Browns turned a fumbled punt and two interceptions into three touchdowns in the final seven minutes Sunday to defeat the Philadelphia Eagles, 35-17.

The three jolts before a sellout crowd of 60,759 came with the Eagles leading 17-14 when Timmy Brown fumbled a punt inside the 10-yard line and Sid Williams recovered for Cleveland on the two.

A scant 72 second later, Ross Fichtner grabbed a King Hill pass and raced it 32 yards into the end zone. Then on the first sequence following the kickoff, Larry Benz returned an interception 22 to the Eagles' 24.

Hill completed 12 of 25 passes for 170 yards and two touchdowns, Jim Ninowski, nine of 20 for 103 yards and one score.

Jim Brown broke the 105-career touchdown mark he held jointly with Don Hutson with his first touchdown of the year in the second period and he gained 133 yards in 27 carries.

The Baltimore Colts scored 24 points in the first half and then survived a desperate San Francisco rally after intermission to defeat the Forty Niners 27-24. The Colts built a 17-point halftime bulge on two touchdowns by Lenny Moore and an interception by Bobby Boyd. But Dave Parks caught a pair of 45-yard TD passes in the second half and also nabbed a 53-yarder in the opening period for San Francisco.

The Green Bay Packers won their third straight game 23-14, over the winless Chicago Bears Bart Starr passed for 263 yards, including a 48-yard score to Bob Long. Lee Roy Caffey returned an intercepted pass 42 yards, and Paul Hornung tallied from the one. Gale Sayers scored both Chicago TDs.

The Detroit Lions managed only 13 yards passing but the defensive team converted two Washington miscues into touchdowns to beat the Redskins 14-10 and remain unbeaten. Wayne Rasmussen picked off one of six Redskin passes that were intercepted and raced 50 yards for a score. Joe Don Looney plunged four-yards for another TD after a Washington fumble.

Earl Morrall tossed two touchdown passes to lead the New York Giants to a 23-13 victory over Pittsburgh. Morrall hit Joe Morrison with a four-yard strike and Aaron Thomas with a 29-yarder. An intercepted pass by Carl Lockhart set up the Giants' first TD, a six-yard run by Steve Thurlow.

Fred Cox kicked a 14-yard field goal with 1:57 remaining to give the Minnesota Vikings a 38-35 triumph over the Los Angeles Rams. Fran Tarkenton passed for two Minnesota touchdowns, Tommy Mason and Bill Brown each scored once for the Vikings and Lonnie Warwick scooped up a blocked punt and ran 10 yards for a score.

LA, Minnesota Finish Season With Victories

By The Associated Press

National League champion Los Angeles and American League champion Minnesota finished the regular season with victories Sunday.

The Dodgers, who clinched their pennant Saturday, defeated fifth-place Milwaukee 3-0 for their 15th victory in the final 16 games. They did it behind the combined three hit pitching of Howie Reed, Bob Miller, Mike Kekich, John Purdin and Bill Singer.

The Twins, who won the AL pennant a week ago, finished the season with a 102-60 record. They edged seventh place California 3-2 with the help of a two-run homer by Harmon Killebrew, his second in as many days. Don Mincher's run-scoring single in the third was the decisive blow.

San Francisco wound up in second place in the NL, two games behind the Dodgers. The Giants defeated Cincinnati 6-3 as Willie Mays hit his 52nd home run, high in the majors.

The defeat dropped the Reds into fourth place, one game behind the Pittsburgh Pirates, who trimmed the eight-place Chicago Cubs 6-3 with a four-run rally in the eighth inning. Jim Pagliaroni's two-run single snapped a 3-3 tie.

Bob Gibson became the NL's seventh 20-game winner and the majors' ninth as seventh-place St. Louis defeated ninth-place Houston 5-2. Gibson, who has lost 12, scattered nine hits.

Doubles by Bobby Wine and pitcher Ray Culp drove in a run each in the ninth inning of the first game of a doubleheader, giving sixth-place Philadelphia a 3-1 triumph over last-place New York.

The Phillies won the second game by the same score with Billy Sorrell's leadoff homer in the 13th inning breaking a 1-1 deadlock. Jack Fisher suffered his 24th setback, most in the majors, against eight victories.

The Chicago White Sox finished second in the AL for the third straight year, edging last place Kansas City 3-2 on Tom McCraw's fifth-inning homer.

Sam Bowens' ninth-inning homer gave third-place Baltimore and Steve Barber a 2-1 victory over fifth-place Cleveland and Sam McDowell. Detroit finished fourth but lost to eighth-place Washington 3-2 as 18-year-old Joe Coleman Jr. gained his second complete game victory in six days.

The sixth-place New York Yankees, who had won five straight pennants, completed their worst season in 40 years by whipping ninth-place Boston 11-5. Whitey Ford pitched seven innings and won his 16th game of the season and the 232nd of his career, becoming the winningest pitcher in Yankee history.

Sea Bird Wins French Classic By Six Lengths

Paris (AP) — Sea Bird, a French-owned 3-year-old colt, scored a whoping six-length victory Sunday in the rich Prix de L'Arc de Triomphe classic and earned a $217,000 purse for Lyon industrialist Jean Ternynck. The American-owned Tom Rolfe was an outclassed sixth.

Winner of the Epsom Derby and French Grand Prix and unbeaten this year, Sea Bird scored handily over another French-owned entry, Reliance, winner of the Prix du Jockey Club and the Paris Grand Prix and previously unbeaten this year. It was the first time the two crack colts have raced against each other.

Sea Bird was ridden by Australian Pat Glennon and Reliance by Yves Saint-Martin. There were 20 entries.

Meadow Court, owned by Bing Crosby and Canadians Max Bell and Frank McMahon, was ninth. Tommy Ladd, owned by Mrs. P. A. B. Widener of the United States, was 11th. Farther back was Soderini, owned by L. L. Lawrence, an American living in France, and Khalife, owned by Bell and trained in Ireland.

Tom Rolfe, winner of the Preakness this year, third in the Kentucky Derby and second in the Belmont, is owned by Raymond Guest, U.S. ambassador to Ireland. The little colt, in his first race over a turf course, was ridden by veteran American jockey Bill Shoemaker.

Sea Bird was timed in 2:35.52 for the 2,400 meters —1½ miles — over the undulating Longchamp course before a crowd of about 75,000 in perfect fall weather. A pale sun shone through a ligh cloud cover. The turf course dried considerably after six straight days of rain this week.

The winner paid 2.20 francs on a one-franc bet to win and 1.80 to place. Reliance paid 1.70 to place. The Rothschild entry paid 2.20.

Tom Rolfe broke fast from the seventh starting position and was among the first three after the first half-mile. He held his position on the uphill section of the course followed by a downhill run and was close to the leader turning into the home stretch.

Griffith, Burruni Slated For Action

Welterweight champion Emile Griffith of New York and flyweight king Salvatore Burruni of Italy will appear in non-title bouts far away from home this week as the boxing program picks up with the arrival of the fall season.

Griffith will take on Harry Scott, British middleweight, Monday night in London. It will be Griffith's third appearance in England where he has defeated Briant Curvis and Dave Charnley.

Buffalo Bills Still Undefeated

. . . CHIEFS, CHARGERS, BRONCOS WIN TOO

By United Press International

Jackie Kemp, the Buffalo quarterback, had his troubles, hitting only 10 of 21 passes for 140 yards. But his three-yard scoring pitch to tight end Ernie Warlick gave the Bills their fourth consecutive victory. Pete Gogolak kicked two extra points and a 20-yard field goal for the Bills.

Buffalo opened the scoring in the first period on Gogolak's field goal. The Bills made it 10-0 on fullback Billy Joe's one-yard plunge. Oakland quarterback Tom Flores pitched a five-yard pass to fullback Alan Miller and Gene Mingo's 33-yard field goal tied the score at 10-10 at the half. The final Raider points came when the Oakland defense drove Kemp into his own end zone for a safety.

Defensive back Willie Mitchell returned an intercepted pass 37 yards for a touchdown to give the Kansas City Chiefs a 27-17 victory over the Boston Patriots, who have yet to win a game. Mitchell had been called for interference on the Chief one-yard line earlier, setting up the final Boston touchdown, scored by fullback Jim Nance.

Kansas City linebacker Bobby Bell scored the first touchdown, returning a pass interception 38 yards. The Patriots tied the score just before the half on a one-yard plunge by Nance, but Kansas City pulled away. Gino Cappelletti kicked an 18-yard field goal for Boston and Tommy Brooker booted field goals of 14 and 48 yards for the Chiefs.

The San Diego Chargers romped over the Houston Oilers, sparked by quarterback John Hadl's three touchdown passes. Two of the heaves, for 69 and 57 yards, went to flankerback Lance Alworth. Defensive end Earl Faison scored on a 24-yard pass interception for the other Charger six-pointer.

San Diego leaped to a 24-0 halftime lead and was never threatened. Houston quarterback Don Trull passed to Charley Hennigan nine yards for one touchdown and scored the other himself on a seven-yard scamper.

Rookie Wendell Hayes plunged two yards for a touchdown with 56 seconds left to push the Denver Broncos past the New York Jets 16-13. The touchdown was set up by a pass interference call against the Jets, which moved the Broncos from their own 38 yard line to the New York 36, whence they moved in for the score.

The Jets took an early 6-0 lead on field goals by Jim Turner of 47 and 49 yards. Rookie Gary Kroner kicked field goals for Denver of 25, 31 and 37 yards. Down 9-6, the Jets took the lead on Bill Mathis' three-yard plunge up the middle. Then Denver scored the winning touchdown.

Boys Town Takes No. 1 Prep Position

. . . PIUS X MOVES TO SECOND; ROCKETS SAME

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Boys Town, boasting consecutive one-touchdown wins over rugged Lincoln Pius X and Omaha Benson, becomes the third team in as many weeks to claim the No. 1 Class A position in the Nebraska Prep Ratings.

Previous leaders Lincoln Northeast and Benson were each bumped after reaching the top. Boys Town appears to have passed its major tests, but always respectable Creighton Prep looms as a possible spoiler this week.

Getting the call for the second and third spots behind Boys Town are Lincoln Pius X and Benson, teams which have handled all other foes with ease.

Climbing up to No. 4 is unbeaten Norfolk, which may never get a test to determine just how good it is. At their current pace the Panthers appear to be a shoo-in to appear in the Big Ten playoff.

Unbeaten Omaha Tech, which has the heavy end of its schedule still to come, is No. 7.

Dick Christie's swift Trojans meet winless Bishop Ryan this week, but then close against Benson, Bellevue, Westside and Prep in order.

Lincoln Northeast, which handed Lincoln High its first loss, 6-0, retains the No. 8 spot. The Rockets have an opportunity to move much higher before the campaign closes, however, as they finish their schedule against Benson and Pius X.

The early pacesetters in the west, North Platte and Alliance, round out the top ten. The two clubs battle in an important West Big Ten contest this week.

North Platte, having already lost to Kearney, must sweep the rest of its conference games to entertain any hopes of getting a return trip to the Big Ten playoff.

The Chicago White Sox finished second in the AL for the third straight year, edging last place Kansas City 3-2 on Tom McCraw's fifth-inning homer.

Sam Bowens' ninth-inning homer gave third-place Baltimore and Steve Barber a 2-1 victory over fifth-place Cleveland and Sam McDowell. Detroit finished fourth but lost to eighth-place Washington 3-2 as 18-year-old Joe Coleman Jr. gained his second complete game victory in six days.

The sixth-place New York Yankees, who had won five straight pennants, completed their worst season in 40 years by whipping ninth-place Boston 11-5. Whitey Ford pitched seven innings and won his 16th game of the season and the 232nd of his career, becoming the winningest pitcher in Yankee history.

Miscues Hurt Lincoln Squad

. . . IN WILD SECOND HALF

With hardly a full team to operate with, Lincoln crumbled to a second-half Omaha machine and lost its fourth Professional Football League of America game of the season, 48-6, at Seacrest Field Sunday.

Thirteen Comets sat out a majority of the second half after a meager crowd of 1,500 had been treated to a 14-6 first half show, and thoughts were roaming around that the Comets would avenge the 48-21, pasting the Mustangs delivered in the opening game.

But the first time Omaha gained second-half possession, it rolled 87 yards for a 21-6 lead—Mike Dugan's 28-yard pass to Simmons good for the score.

The Mustangs were stymied at the nine the next time with the ball, but scored each of the three other times it moved and had a 59-yard touchdown interception runback from Bill Stangerone to boot.

Interceptions and fumbles cost Lincoln heartily all the way. Each time the Comets fumbled or Doug Tucker threw an intercepted pass, Omaha turned the gift into a touchdown.

A Tucker thrown pass gave Omaha the ball at the Lincoln 32 in the first quarter. Four plays later the Mustangs scored the first touchdown, with Dugan dragging a Comet into the end zone from six yards out.

The Mustangs cornered a wondering Tucker back at his two moments later, forcing a fumble. Emil Radick scored with a short plunge over the middle for the first half Omaha scoring.

Lincoln looked quite promising in the first half, scoring on a 15-play, 72-yard march for its score. Mixing running and passing, the Comets marched to the one where Byron McCane bolted through for the score Rod Franz' kick was blocked.

Tucker's 13-yard heave to Dave Martin, a reserve in for injured Preston Love, for a first down at the Omaha 14 was the key play of the drive.

The Comets marched steadily the first series of the game. But a five-yard penalty at the Mustang 11 and two unproductive plays left them at the 16. Lincoln also penetrated to the 25 and 27 yard lines of Omaha before fading.

Aside from his giving the ball up, Tucker threw 39 times and hit 21 for 285 yards for the Comets, now 1-4.

Sea Bird Wins French Classic By Six Lengths

Paris (AP) — Sea Bird, a French-owned 3-year-old colt, scored a whoping six-length victory Sunday in the rich Prix de L'Arc de Triomphe classic and earned a $217,000 purse for Lyon industrialist Jean Ternynck. The American-owned Tom Rolfe was an outclassed sixth.

Winner of the Epsom Derby and French Grand Prix and unbeaten this year, Sea Bird scored handily over another French-owned entry, Reliance, winner of the Prix du Jockey Club and the Paris Grand Prix and previously unbeaten this year. It was the first time the two crack colts have raced against each other.

Sea Bird was ridden by Australian Pat Glennon and Reliance by Yves Saint-Martin. There were 20 entries.

Meadow Court, owned by Bing Crosby and Canadians Max Bell and Frank McMahon, was ninth. Tommy Ladd, owned by Mrs. P. A. B. Widener of the United States, was 11th. Farther back was Soderini, owned by L. L. Lawrence, an American living in France, and Khalife, owned by Bell and trained in Ireland.

Tom Rolfe, winner of the Preakness this year, third in the Kentucky Derby and second in the Belmont, is owned by Raymond Guest, U.S. ambassador to Ireland. The little colt, in his first race over a turf course, was ridden by veteran American jockey Bill Shoemaker

Sea Bird was timed in 2:35.52 for the 2,400 meters —1½ miles — over the undulating Longchamp course before a crowd of about 75,000 in perfect fall weather. A pale sun shone through a ligh cloud cover. The turf course dried considerably after six straight days of rain this week.

The winner paid 2.20 francs on a one-franc bet to win and 1.80 to place. Reliance paid 1.70 to place. The Rothschild entry paid 2.20.

A national lottery sweepstakes was based on the race. The sweepstakes will distribute $4,140,000 with a first place prize of $400,000.

Tom Rolfe broke fast from the seventh starting position and was among the first three after the first half-mile. He held his position on the uphill section of the course followed by a downhill run and was close to the leader turning into the home stretch.

Buffalo Bills Still Undefeated

. . . CHIEFS, CHARGERS, BRONCOS WIN TOO

By United Press International

The Buffalo defensive unit was forced to be at its best to stop the Raiders, who battled the Bills evenly for most of the game.

Jackie Kemp, the Buffalo quarterback, had his troubles, hitting only 10 of 21 passes for 140 yards. But his three-yard scoring pitch to tight end Ernie Warlick gave the Bills their fourth consecutive victory. Pete Gogolak kicked two extra points and a 20-yard field goal for the Bills.

Buffalo opened the scoring in the first period on Gogolak's field goal. The Bills made it 10-0 on fullback Billy Joe's one-yard plunge. Oakland quarterback Tom Flores pitched a five-yard pass to fullback Alan Miller and Gene Mingo's 33-yard field goal tied the score at 10-10 at the half. The final Raider points came when the Oakland defense drove Kemp into his own end zone for a safety.

Defensive back Willie Mitchell returned an intercepted pass 37 yards for a touchdown to give the Kansas City Chiefs a 27-17 victory over the Boston Patriots, who have yet to win a game. Mitchell had been called for interference on the Chief one-yard line earlier, setting up the final Boston touchdown, scored by fullback Jim Nance.

Kansas City linebacker Bobby Bell scored the first touchdown, returning a pass interception 38 yards. The Patriots tied the score just before the half on a one-yard plunge by Nance, but Kansas City pulled away. Gino Cappelletti kicked an 18-yard field goal for Boston and Tommy Brooker booted field goals of 14 and 48 yards for the Chiefs.

The San Diego Chargers romped over the Houston Oilers, sparked by quarterback John Hadl's three touchdown passes. Two of the heaves, for 69 and 57 yards, went to flankerback Lance Alworth. Defensive end Earl Faison scored on a 24-yard pass interception for the other Charger six-pointer.

San Diego leaped to a 24-0 halftime lead and was never threatened. Houston quarterback Don Trull passed to Charley Hennigan nine yards for one touchdown and scored the other himself on a seven-yard scamper.

Rookie Wendell Hayes plunged two yards for a touchdown with 56 seconds left to push the Denver Broncos past the New York Jets 16-13. The touchdown was set up by a pass interference call against the Jets, which moved the Broncos from their own 38 yard line to the New York 36, whence they moved in for the score.

The Jets took an early 6-0 lead on field goals by Jim Turner of 47 and 49 yards. Rookie Gary Kroner kicked field goals for Denver of 25, 31 and 37 yards. Down 9-6, the Jets took the lead on Bill Mathis' three-yard plunge up the middle. Then Denver scored the winning touchdown.

Boys Town Takes No. 1 Prep Position

. . . PIUS X MOVES TO SECOND; ROCKETS SAME

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Boys Town, boasting consecutive one-touchdown wins over rugged Lincoln Pius X and Omaha Benson, becomes the third team in as many weeks to claim the No. 1 Class A position in the Nebraska Prep Ratings.

Previous leaders Lincoln Northeast and Benson were each bumped after reaching the top. Boys Town appears to have passed its major tests, but always respectable Creighton Prep looms as a possible spoiler this week.

Boys Town, No. 2 behind Benson last week, put a solid claim on the top rating with a 6-0 win over the Bunnies.

Getting the call for the second and third spots behind Boys Town are Lincoln Pius X and Benson, teams which have handled all other foes with ease.

Climbing up to No. 4 is unbeaten Norfolk, which may never get a test to determine just how good it is. At their current pace the Panthers appear to be a shoo-in to appear in the Big Ten playoff.

Bellevue, which sneaked past previously unbeaten Omaha Westside, 14-13, last week, takes the No. 5 spot. Westside heads the second division.

Unbeaten Omaha Tech, which has the heavy end of its schedule still to come, is No. 7.

Dick Christie's swift Trojans meet winless Bishop Ryan this week, but then close against Benson, Bellevue, Westside and Prep in order.

Lincoln Northeast, which handed Lincoln High its first loss, 6-0, retains the No. 8 spot. The Rockets have an opportunity to move much higher before the campaign closes, however, as they finish their schedule against Benson and Pius X.

The early pacesetters in the west, North Platte and Alliance, round out the top ten. The two clubs battle in an important West Big Ten contest this week.

North Platte, having already lost to Kearney, must sweep the rest of its conference games to entertain any hopes of getting a return trip to the Big Ten playoff.

Alliance remains unbeaten, but the tough assignments for the Bulldogs are yet to come. They haven't met any West Big Ten foes as of yet.

Readers are reminded that shooting hours for all upland game birds and small-game animals are from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Shooting hours for big game are from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset. Waterfowl and other migratory birds may be taken between sunrise and sunset. The following applies to shooting at any point in Nebraska that is due north or due south of each of the cities and towns. For each 13 miles west of each city add one minute, and for each 13 miles east subtract one minute.

For light-duty truck users, there's more Chevy workpower for '66—the biggest engine choice in Chevrolet history—featuring a new more powerful 250-cubic-inch Six that's standard in most models. Also, a high-performance 327-cubic-inch V8 can now be specified for ½-ton models. And look at your choice of trucks! Chevy pickups now come in 18 models; and the industry's broadest selection of covered delivery trucks offers everything from handy low-cost Chevy-Vans to the biggest of door-to-door haulers.

New heavy-duty workpower, too! Here's the biggest news for '66—all-new Chevrolet Series 70000 and 80000 heavyweights! GCW ratings go as high as a whopping 65,000 lbs. for highway hauls. GVW's to 48,000 lbs. for all kinds of big-truck jobs. Included are new 92" cabs, new tandems, new V6 gas engines up to 478 cubic inches, new V6 and V8 diesels as big as 637 cubic inches!

Whatever you need in a new truck, you'll find in Chevy's longer, stronger line of light-, medium-, and heavy-duty models for '66. They're at your Chevrolet dealer's now.

Wisconsin Fullback Was High School Slot Back

. . . BECAUSE OF CHARLIE WINTERS

None of this is particularly surprising because Bucciarelli is a fullback in the starting backfield for Wisconsin.

What might be a little surprising, however, is that Bucciarelli wasn't a fullback in high school. He was a slot back, partly becuse he was a pretty good one. But perhaps more important is that his high school in Joliet, Ill., had a good fullback. His name was Charlie Winters, the same Charlie Winters who had a good day for Nebraska Saturday in the 44-0 victory over Iowa State.

Charlie had a better day than Bucciarelli had. In fact Bucciarelli hasn't done too well in the three games to date for Wisconsin, partially due to injuries and partially because Wisconsin has been having trouble getting its rushing offense going.

In three games Wisconsin has rushed for only 128 yards, but Bucciarelli has amassed more than a third of it with 49 yards.

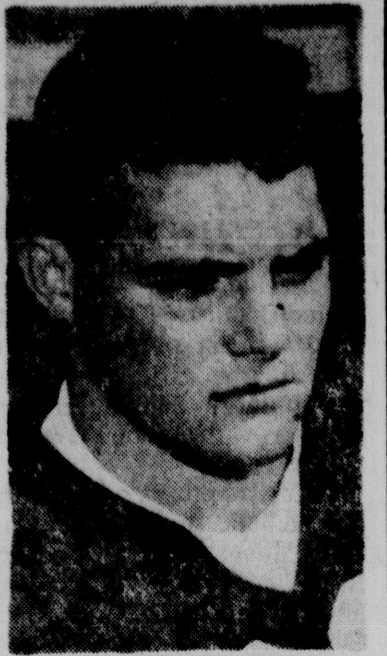
"I know we're not real good offensively yet," Bucciarelli says, emphasizing the "yet." "But I think we're going to get better. Our offense, especially, should begin to go better. I think we're better than people give us credit for."



GALE BUCCIARELLI

Bucciarelli began explaining how teams could key on certain backs, then he broke out into a big grin.

"I'm no big star or anything," he says, "so they don't key on me. But it does help if they have to watch for the pass."

Bucciarelli wound up at Wisconsin because he wanted to give Big Ten football a try and he thought Wisconsin had a good school. It didn't hurt anything that the Badgers were in a rebuilding program.

"I didn't know if I'd start or not," Bucciarelli says, "but I noticed that Wisconsin was a younger team then Illinois."

The victory over Iowa is expected to be quite a psychological lift for the young Badgers who bagged their first victory and a conference one at that Saturday.

There is a deep respect for Nebraska, though, and Bucciarelli noted that Winters had been kidding him about the Huskers being rated and the Badgers being picked low in the Big Ten.

Englishman Hill Wins US Grand Prix Over Gurney

Watkins Glen, N.Y. (AP) — Graham Hill of England drove to an easy 10-second victory over American Dan Gurney in the damp and windy Grand Prix of the United States Sunday.

Hill put his BRM in the lead on the fifth lap after Jim Clark of Scotland, the world champion, began developing engine trouble. Clark's mechanics could not get his 32-valve Lotus-Climax running after he made an 11th lap pit stop.

Wisconsin Fullback Was High School Slot Back

. . . BECAUSE OF CHARLIE WINTERS

What might be a little sur-ising, however, is that Buc-arelli wasn't a fullback in gh school. He was a slot ack, partly becuse he was a etty good one. But perhaps ore important is that his gh school in Joliet, Ill., had good fullback. His name was narlie Winters, the same narlie Winters who had a od day for Nebraska Satur-ay in the 44-0 victory over wa State.

Charlie had a better day an Bucciarelli had. In fact ucciarelli hasn't done too ell in the three games to ate for Wisconsin, partially due to injuries and partially because Wisconsin has been having trouble getting its rushing offense going.

In three games Wisconsin has rushed for only 128 yards, but Bucciarelli has amassed more than a third of it with 49 yards.

Statistics just don't phase Bucciarelli or any of the Wisconsin sophomores who believe in themselves.

"I know we're not real good offensively yet," Bucciarelli says, emphasizing the "yet." "But I think we're going to get better Our offense, especially, should begin to go better. I think we're better than people give us credit for."

GALE BUCCIARELLI

Bucciarelli began explaining how teams could key on certain backs, then he broke out into a big grin.

"I'm no big star or anything," he says, "so they don't key on me. But it does help if they have to watch for the pass."

Bucciarelli wound up at Wisconsin because he wanted to give Big Ten football a try and he thought Wisconsin had a good school. It didn't hurt anything that the Badgers were in a rebuilding program.

"I didn't know if I'd start or not," Bucciarelli says, "but I noticed that Wisconsin was a younger team then Illinois"

The victory over Iowa is expected to be quite a psychological lift for the young Badgers who bagged their first victory and a conference one at that Saturday.

There is a deep respect for Nebraska, though, and Bucciarelli noted that Winters had been kidding him about the Huskers being rated and the Badgers being picked low in the Big Ten

Shastri: Truth, Justice Support Indian Terms

New Delhi, India (AP)—Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said Sunday India wants peace with Pakistan "but this time it must be settled on India's terms because truth and justice are on our side."

He addressed a rally of Sikhs in one of their temples. The rally was convened for homage to those killed in the 22-day war with Pakistan.

Shastri referred to the various moves in the United Nations to restore peace and said, "We will listen to the voice of the peacemakers, but peace this time has to be on our terms.

"I hope friendly countries will see our viewpoint and agree with us.

"Let us see what the big powers do in the United Nations — I am sure they will see justice and truth.

"But if they do not see our point we will then have to reshape our policies. We will have to decide what to do," Shastri said.

Shastri mentioned four countries when he referred to "friendly countries"—the United States, the Soviet Union, France and West Germany.

The defense ministry claimed Pakistan is keeping the entire cease-fire line from Kashmir to Rajasthan "tense and alive in utter disregard of the cease-fire agreement."

A spokesman said Pakistani troops are trying to inch forward in the Sialkot and Lahore sectors to improve their defenses while their planes fly over Indian-held areas.

These violations had been brought to the notice of United Nations observers and protests lodged with them, he said.

PRAVDA HITS CHINA AFTER PEACE TRIES

Moscow (AP) — The Kremlin issued its strongest attack on Red China in months Sunday after two new Soviet bids to improve relations had been ignored by Peking.

What irked Moscow was the Chinese government's use of a Li Tsung-jen, a former acting president of Nationalist China, for a propaganda offensive against the Soviet Union.

Pravda, organ of the Soviet Communist Party, was critical of a news conference Li held last Sunday in Peking. Li's defection was announced by Peking July 20. He had been living in the United States since 1950 and Peking made the most of his defection.

Pravda said Li had "advised smashing the CPSU (Communist Party of the Soviet Union.)"

Pravda called Li an enemy of communism who had executed thousands of Chinese Communists in his day as a Nationalist leader.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Voluntary Charity Needed Despite Public Aid Hike

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

Rukeyser

He is the dynamo behind the Grand Street Boys' Association, which is a monument to the American system which enabled ambitious and talented youngsters from the East Side slums to rise to posts of eminence in government, the professions, industry and finance. This inspiring history refutes the contemporary propaganda cliche to the effect that those born in disadvantaged neighborhoods face a vicious cycle from which they cannot emerge.

Speaking in practical terms about the war against poverty, Judge Goldstein said to me: "When I was young, wealthy men tied a string to their charitable gifts and undertook to dictate policy and appointments. That was wrong, but now the pendulum has swung too far in the opposite direction. Social workers, with a vocabulary of their own will brook no interference. Wealthy donors with business experience could render a service in setting up rules for buying and overhead administration."

Judge Goldstein expressed the view that expanded governmental relief does not obviate the need for the flexibility of voluntary charity. To support his viewpoint he related the case of a one-time stenotype operator who, having quit her occupation for many years because of family obligations, had lost part of her skills. She was on relief, and received subsistence funds for shelter, food and clothing.

But, the Judge said, these payments did nothing to help her get off the relief rolls. He stated that a machine could be acquired for $75 and a refresher course for $50, but pointed out that the relief rules did not permit such use of funds.

In memory of his late wife, Judge Goldstein has endowed a seminar at Brandeis University to study the function of the volunteer charity worker in our contemporary society.

Economic Terms

If any tangible progress is to be made nationally toward a Great Society in the fight against poverty, the battle must be conceived in terms of economics.

Laws and subsidies are not enough.

The key to reducing poverty or to raising living standards lies in developing machinery and techniques which enable the human worker to produce more and hence to earn more and better things in exchange for a week's work.

In recognition of these fundamentals, the U.S. Commerce Department this atumn is planning a series of productivity conferences whereby the federal agency will be a clearing house for making known the current state of technology industry by industry. Trade associations will play a role in the cooperative effort.

The effort will be to broaden use within industries of the techniques and equipment already employed by leaders. The areas of study will include engineering, marketing, cost accounting, research and development, plant and equipment and tax compliance systems.

State Taxes

Resistance has been shown in state legislatures this year to the trend of increasing taxes and thus offsetting in whole or in part the stimulating effect of federal tax cuts.

One helpful factor in a variety of states is the evidence that continuing prosperity has been substantially increasing the yield of existing state taxes. As a result 20 states have either rejected or failed to act this year on proposals to expand revenues by $1.7 billion per year through new taxes.

The resistance, however, is far from universal. A survey by the Tax Foundation reveals that 32 of the 47 states with legislative sessions in 1965 have either adopted new taxes or increased rates in a manner to swell revenues by $1.3 billion, or 5.4% over 1964 collections.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

Settlement Reached In Boeing Tieup

Seattle (AP) — Tentative accord was reached early Sunday to end the 18-day strike which has idled 35,000 Boeing Co. production workers.

Negotiators for the International Association of Machinists and Boeing came to terms just before 2 a.m. after a marathon 15-hour session with federal mediators.

The settlement was announced by mediators Walter A. Maggiolo of Washington, D.C., and Albin L. Peterson, who commended both sides "for laying aside their self-interests" for the public good.

Terms were not disclosed pending a vote on the agreement by union workers at Boeing installations across the country. The mediators said the negotiators "reached accomodations which were fair and equitable."

"We look forward hopefully, and with optimism, to approval by the membership," said Ed Springer, coordinator of negotiations for the IAM.

The vote was scheduled here at 10 a.m. Monday in the Seattle Coliseum. Other membership meetings will be held in Wichita, Kan.; Cape Kennedy, Fla.; New Orleans, La.; Huntsville, Ala.; Vandenburg Air Force Base Calif.; Ogden, Utah, and various Minuteman missile sites.

Man Finds Baby Girl On His Lawn

Police said the musician, Russell Eggert, 57, brought the baby to his wife who called police. With the baby was a note which read: "Born Sept. 30, 1965, 12:15 p.m."

The baby was taken to a hospital where she was reported in excellent condition.

Wide Prostitution, Liquor Violations Found Near Fort

St. Louis (AP) — Widespread liquor law violations and prostitution have been found near Ft. Leonard Wood by state liquor agents, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat reported Sunday.

The newspaper said the agents plan to seek injunctions to close six back-road clubs within a 2½-mile radius of the U.S. Army post in Pulaski County.

The liquor law violations reportedly occur in cafes and the prostitution in nearby trailers. The newspaper said each of the six places had from six to 10 prostitutes soliciting soldiers.

Liquor Commissioner Glennon Moran said he will confer with the Pulaski County prosecutor Arthur Cohn, soon with enough evidence to declare the clubs a public nuisance. Moran said he will seek injunctions to close the places permanently.

Khrushchev Blamed For Red Anti-Semitism In Report

Washington (AP)— Nikita Khrushchev, the former Soviet premier, is responsible for discrimination against Jews in the Soviet Union, says a study prepared for a Senate subcommittee.

"Khrushchev has been outspokenly anti-Semitic and his position has been that top Soviet echelons must be as Judenrein as possible," the study says. Judenrein, or free of Jews, was a German slogan of the Hitler period.

The study released Sunday night is entitled "The Soviet Empire—A Study in Discrimination and Abuse of Power." It was prepared by the legislative reference service of the Library of Congress for the Senate internal security subcommittee.

"Discrimination against Soviet Jews has been an official policy of the Soviet government," the study finds.

Under Khrushchev, it reports, the number of Jews in the party and government was drastically reduced and "as far as is known there are no Jews in the upper echelons of the party or government, with the exception of V. E. Dimchitz, first deputy chairman of the planning office."

Before World War II, 41.1% of deputies to the Supreme Soviet were Jewish; by 1958 the figure had dropped to 0.25%, according to the study.

The Jews, the study continues, have "virtually disappeared from sensitive areas of government such as the diplomatic service and the armed forces. In general, Jews are considered . . . a security risk group; suspected of actual or potential disloyalty.

Shastri: Truth, Justice Support Indian Terms

New Delhi, India (AP)—Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said Sunday India wants peace with Pakistan "but this time it must be settled on India's terms because truth and justice are on our side."

He addressed a rally of Sikhs in one of their temples. The rally was convened for homage to those killed in the 22-day war with Pakistan.

Shastri referred to the various moves in the United Nations to restore peace and said, "We will listen to the voice of the peacemakers, but peace this time has to be on our terms.

"I hope friendly countries will see our viewpoint and agree with us.

"Let us see what the big powers do in the United Nations — I am sure they will see justice and truth.

"But if they do not see our point we will then have to reshape our policies. We will have to decide what to do." Shastri said.

Shastri mentioned four countries when he referred to "friendly countries"—the United States, the Soviet Union, France and West Germany.

The defense ministry claimed Pakistan is keeping the entire cease-fire line from Kashmir to Rajasthan "tense and alive in utter disregard of the cease-fire agreement."

A spokesman said Pakistani troops are trying to inch forward in the Sialkot and Lahore sectors to improve their defenses while their planes fly over Indian-held areas.

These violations had been brought to the notice of United Nations observers and protests lodged with them, he said.

PRAVDA HITS CHINA AFTER PEACE TRIES

Moscow (AP) — The Kremlin issued its strongest attack on Red China in months Sunday after two new Soviet bids to improve relations had been ignored by Peking.

What irked Moscow was the Chinese government's use of a Li Tsung-jen, a former acting president of Nationalist China, for a propaganda offensive against the Soviet Union.

Pravda, organ of the Soviet Communist Party, was critical of a news conference Li held last Sunday in Peking. Li's defection was announced by Peking July 20. He had been living in the United States since 1950 and Peking made the most of his defection.

The Chinese government brought in foreign correspondents from Hong Kong for Li's news conference. Americans were not invited.

Pravda said Li had "advised smashing the CPSU (Communist Party of the Soviet Union.)"

Pravda called Li an enemy of communism who had executed thousands of Chinese Communists in his day as a Nationalist leader.

It called Li "a man for whom the garbage heap of history is the only fitting place."

The Pravda article appeared to be the result of Chinese indifference to Soviet peace appeals last week.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Voluntary Charity Needed Despite Public Aid Hike

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

Rukeyser

He is the dynamo behind the Grand Street Boys' Association, which is a monument to the American system which enabled ambitious and talented youngsters from the East Side slums to rise to posts of eminence in government, the professions, industry and finance. This inspiring history refutes the contemporary propaganda cliche to the effect that those born in disadvantaged neighborhoods face a vicious cycle from which they cannot emerge.

Speaking in practical terms about the war against poverty, Judge Goldstein said to me: "When I was young, wealthy men tied a string to their charitable gifts and undertook to dictate policy and appointments. That was wrong, but now the pendulum has swung too far in the opposite direction. Social workers, with a vocabulary of their own will brook no interference. Wealthy donors with business experience could render a service in setting up rules for buying and overhead administration."

Judge Goldstein expressed the view that expanded governmental relief does not obviate the need for the flexibility of voluntary charity. To support his viewpoint he related the case of a one-time stenotype operator who, having quit her occupation for many years because of family obligations, had lost part of her skills. She was on relief, and received subsistence funds for shelter, food and clothing.

But, the Judge said, these payments did nothing to help her get off the relief rolls. He stated that a machine could be acquired for $75 and a refresher course for $50, but pointed out that the relief rules did not permit such use of funds.

In memory of his late wife, Judge Goldstein has endowed a seminar at Brandeis University to study the function of the volunteer charity worker in our contemporary society.

Economic Terms

If any tangible progress is to be made nationally toward a Great Society in the fight against poverty, the battle must be conceived in terms of economics.

Laws and subsidies are not enough.

The key to reducing poverty or to raising living standards lies in developing machinery and techniques which enable the human worker to produce more and hence to earn more and better things in exchange for a week's work.

In recognition of these fundamentals, the U.S. Commerce Department this atumn is planning a series of productivity conferences whereby the federal agency will be a clearing house for making known the current state of technology industry by industry. Trade associations will play a role in the cooperative effort.

The effort will be to broaden use within industries of the techniques and equipment already employed by leaders. The areas of study will include engineering, marketing, cost accounting, research and development, plant and equipment and tax compliance systems.

State Taxes

Resistance has been shown in state legislatures this year to the trend of increasing taxes and thus offsetting in whole or in part the stimulating effect of federal tax cuts.

One helpful factor in a variety of states is the evidence that continuing prosperity has been substantially increasing the yield of existing state taxes. As a result 20 states have either rejected or failed to act this year on proposals to expand revenues by $1.7 billion per year through new taxes.

The resistance, however, is far from universal. A survey by the Tax Foundation reveals that 32 of the 47 states with legislative sessions in 1965 have either adopted new taxes or increased rates in a manner to swell revenues by $1.3 billion, or 5.4% over 1964 collections.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

Settlement Reached In Boeing Tieup

Seattle (AP) — Tentative accord was reached early Sunday to end the 18-day strike which has idled 35,000 Boeing Co production workers.

Negotiators for the International Association of Machinists and Boeing came to terms just before 2 a.m. after a marathon 15-hour session with federal mediators.

The settlement was announced by mediators Walter A. Maggiolo of Washington, D.C., and Albin L Peterson, who commended both sides "for laying aside their self-interests" for the public good.

Terms were not disclosed pending a vote on the agreement by union workers at Boeing installations across the country. The mediators said the negotiators "reached accomodations which were fair and equitable."

The union recommended acceptance.

"We look forward hopefully, and with optimism, to approval by the membership," said Ed Springer, coordinator of negotiations for the IAM.

The vote was scheduled here at 10 a.m. Monday in the Seattle Coliseum. Other membership meetings will be held in Wichita, Kan.; Cape Kennedy, Fla.; New Orleans, La.; Huntsville, Ala.; Vandenburg Air Force Base, Calif.; Ogden, Utah, and various Minuteman missile sites.

Man Finds Baby Girl On His Lawn

Police said the musician, Russell Eggert, 57, brought the baby to his wife who called police. With the baby was a note which read: "Born Sept 30, 1965 12 15 p.m."

The baby was taken to a hospital where she was reported in excellent condition.

Wide Prostitution, Liquor Violations Found Near Fort

St. Louis (AP) — Widespread liquor law violations and prostitution have been found near Ft. Leonard Wood by state liquor agents, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat reported Sunday.

The newspaper said the agents plan to seek injunctions to close six back-road clubs within a 2½-mile radius of the U.S. Army post in Pulaski County.

The liquor law violations reportedly occur in cafes and the prostitution in nearby trailers. The newspaper said each of the six places had from six to 10 prostitutes soliciting soldiers.

Liquor Commissioner Glennon Moran said he will confer with the Pulaski County prosecutor Arthur Cohn soon with enough evidence to declare the clubs a public nuisance. Moran said he will seek injunctions to close the places permanently.

Sorensen: JFK's Inability To Be Tough Was Weakness

Washington (AP) — President John F. Kennedy suffered from "an inability to be as tough as at times he should have been," one of his closest aides said Sunday.

Appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press," Theodore C. Sorensen, Lincoln native who was special counsel of the late president and worked with him for 11 years, said Kennedy found it difficult to "hurt people's feelings" when it was necessary to do so.

Sorensen was questioned closely about his book, "Kennedy." Although Monday is the official publishing date of the book, it has been widely quoted and has been on sale in some bookstores for weeks.

The former White House aide refused to answer questions about reports that he had omitted portions of the book that indicated Kennedy wanted to dump Dean Rusk as secretary of state after 1964.

No Value

"I'm willing to explain and defend everything in the book," Sorensen said, but he added that he saw "no value" in commenting on changes he made in the manuscript.

"I've tried . . . to give an over-all, balanced view of President Kennedy's attitudes toward many of his subordinates," Sorensen added.

When asked what were some of the limitations Kennedy faced as president, Sorensen said one of the greatest was "getting others to follow when the president leads." He said Kennedy found good policy positions and personal appeal helpful in overcoming this limitation.

Sorensen said he would not recommend any formal changes in the presidency, saying:

"Im not a great believer in institutional reform. Each president has to shape the office to fit his needs and talents. To freeze it in the pattern of one president would be a mistake."

Sorensen, who worked on much of Kennedy's domestic program, was asked whether he thought Congress should continue to move ahead with new legislation or pause for a period of consolidation.

Goals Unmet

"I see large goals still unmet," Sorensen answered. He mentioned specifically tax reform, adding: "Consolidation is important and with this kind of Democratic Congress and this kind of climate . . . the opportunity may not be presented again . . . I don't believe in taking a year off at any time."

What would President Kennedy's memoirs have been like? Sorensen was asked at the end of the program.

Others with Taylor are not identified.

Brazil Holding Major Vote

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil (AP)— Brazilians voted for 11 state governors Sunday in the first major election since the military threw out President Joao Goulart in 1964.

The results also are likely to shed some light on the presidential elections scheduled for a year from now.

Two Loom

The chief figures looming behind the balloting are former President Juscelino Kubitschek and one of his old adversaries, Guanabara Gov. Carlos Lacerda. Lacerda is a candidate for the presidency, and before Kubitschek went into self-imposed exile after Goulart's downfall, he expressed a desire to run again for president.

Two old Kubitschek cronies are running in the gubernatorial contests. They are Israel Pinheiro, chief of the government corporation that built Brasilia, and Francisco Negrao de Lima, foreign minister under Kutitschek.

Both Social Democrats, Pinheiro is a candidate for governor of Minas Gerais state, Kubitschek's home, and Negrao de Lima is running in Guanabara state (Rio de Janeiro) against Carlos candidate in the National Democratic Union.

Also Goulart's Backing

Pinheiro and Negrao de Lima also have support from Goulart's Brazilian Labor Party.

The National Democratic Union supports Castello Branco's government and Lacerda was among the civilian prime movers of the 1964 revolt that toppled Goulart as being too pro-communist.

Pinheiro is favored in Minas Gerais, while it may be touch and go in Guanabara, National Democratic Union candidate Paulo Pimental has been given the edge over Social Democrat Bento Munoz Derocha in Parana state, the third state with more than a million voters.

AMERICAN IS KING

Edward C. Schafer, a St. Louis public relations man, is the elected king of the African tribe of Biffeche. With the flag of the Biffeche in the background, Schafer sits among several wood carvings produced by his tribe. He sells the carvings in the United States and sends the money to Africa for use by the Biffeche.

Scorpion Strikes Again At Sealab 2 Project

La Jolla, Calif. (AP) — A scorpion fish struck again Sunday at Sealab 2, stinging aquanaut Rick Grigg three times on the hand once on the foot.

Although they were the worst stings received by an aquanaut since the underwater experiment began Aug. 28, Grigg 28, of La Jolla, was reported in good condition. He was walking around the underwater laboratory five hours after he was stung.

The poison of the local scorpion fish, or sculpin, is not considered lethal, although the western Pacific variety has been known to kill divers with its neurotoxic sting.

The 10-man third team of aquanauts, who descended Sept. 26 for the last 15-day phase of the 45-day experiment, spent most of Sunday relaxing — except for Grigg.

Irish Women Shrink At Nude Modeling

In fact they describe it as a "crisis" in the republic.

No Response

"We have advertised for female nude models over the past few years without a single response," said the Limerick spokesman.

"Live models are essential for our students studying for their examinations," he added.

"We have also tried advertising without results," he said.

Sense of Values

"Irish girls are essentially modest and no amount of argument is going to persuade them art provides an exception to their strict codes of conduct, "the spokesman said.

"It seems we're going to have to turn to the continent for our models," he added.

Sorensen: JFK's Inability To Be Tough Was Weakness

Washington (AP) — President John F. Kennedy suffered from "an inability to be as tough as at times he should have been," one of his closest aides said Sunday.

Appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press," Theodore C. Sorensen, Lincoln native who was special counsel of the late president and worked with him for 11 years, said Kennedy found it difficult to "hurt people's feelings" when it was necessary to do so.

Sorensen was questioned closely about his book, "Kennedy." Although Monday is the official publishing date of the book, it has been widely quoted and has been on sale in some bookstores for weeks.

The former White House aide refused to answer questions about reports that he had omitted portions of the book that indicated Kennedy wanted to dump Dean Rusk as secretary of state after 1964.

No Value

"I'm willing to explain and defend everything in the book," Sorensen said, but he added that he saw "no value" in commenting on changes he made in the manuscript.

"I've tried . . . to give an over-all, balanced view of President Kennedy's attitudes toward many of his subordinates," Sorensen added.

When asked what were some of the limitations Kennedy faced as president, Sorensen said one of the greatest was "getting others to follow when the president leads." He said Kennedy found good policy positions and personal appeal helpful in overcoming this limitation.

Sorensen said he would not recommend any formal changes in the presidency, saying:

"Im not a great believer in institutional reform. Each president has to shape the office to fit his needs and talents. To freeze it in the pattern of one president would be a mistake."

Sorensen, who worked on much of Kennedy's domestic program, was asked whether he thought Congress should continue to move ahead with new legislation or pause for a period of consolidation.

Goals Unmet

"I see large goals still unmet," Sorensen answered. He mentioned specifically tax reform, adding: "Consolidation is important and with this kind of Democratic Congress and this kind of climate . . . the opportunity may not be presented again . . . I don't believe in taking a year off at any time."

What would President Kennedy's memoirs have been like? Sorensen was asked at the end of the program.

He answered, smiling:

GEN. TAYLOR SPATTERED

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former ambassador to Viet Nam, leaves the Foothill College gymnasium in Los Altos Hills, Calif., after being spattered with red paint following his speech. Paint was believed intended for a group of student demonstrators. It is not known who threw the paint. The photo was made by Jim Koski, student photographer at the college. Others with Taylor are not identified.

Brazil Holding Major Vote

Two Loom

The chief figures looming behind the balloting are former President Juscelino Kubitschek and one of his old adversaries, Guanabara Gov. Carlos Lacerda. Lacerda is a candidate for the presidency, and before Kubitschek went into self-imposed exile after Goulart's downfall, he expressed a desire to run again for president.

Two old Kubitschek cronies are running in the gubernatorial contests. They are Israel Pinheiro, chief of the government corporation that built Brasilia, and Francisco Negrao de Lima, foreign minister under Kutitschek.

Both Social Democrats, Pinheiro is a candidate for governor of Minas Gerais state, Kubitschek's home, and Negrao de Lima is running in Guanabara state (Rio de Janeiro) against Carlos candidate in the National Democratic Union.

Also Goulart's Backing

Pinheiro and Negrao de Lima also have support from Goulart's Brazilian Labor Party.

The National Democratic Union supports Castello Branco's government and Lacerda was among the civilian prime movers of the 1964 revolt that toppled Goulart as being too pro-communist.

Pinheiro is favored in Minas Gerais, while it may be touch and go in Guanabara, National Democratic Union candidate Paulo Pimental has been given the edge over Social Democrat Bento Munoz Derocha in Parana state, the third state with more than a million voters.

AMERICAN IS KING

Edward C. Schafer, a St. Louis public relations man, is the elected king of the African tribe of Biffeche. With the flag of the Biffeche in the background, Schafer sits among several wood carvings produced by his tribe. He sells the carvings in the United States and sends the money to Africa for use by the Biffeche.

Scorpion Strikes Again At Sealab 2 Project

La Jolla, Calif. (AP) — A scorpion fish struck again Sunday at Sealab 2, stinging aquanaut Rick Grigg three times on the hand once on the foot.

Although they were the worst stings received by an aquanaut since the underwater experiment began Aug. 28, Grigg 28, of La Jolla, was reported in good condition. He was walking around the underwater laboratory five hours after he was stung.

Griggs, a biologist at Scripps Institution of Oceanography here, was not wearing gloves or boots when he encountered the scorpion fish during a dive down a submarine canyon to collect biological samples.

Astronaut - aquanaut M. Scott Carpenter, was stung earlier by one of the poisonous fish. The sting causes pain and swelling.

Aquanaut Robert Sonnenburg, the Navy doctor who tended Carpenter, also treated Grigg with a pain-killing drug and antihistamines.

The poison of the local scorpion fish, or sculpin, is not considered lethal, although the western Pacific variety has been known to kill divers with its neurotoxic sting.

The 10-man third team of aquanauts, who descended Sept. 26 for the last 15-day phase of the 45-day experiment, spent most of Sunday relaxing — except for Grigg.

Irish Women Shrink At Nude Modeling

Dublin (UPI)—Art for art's sake may uncover a girl's best points but it won't get Irish colleens to pose nude.

Advertising has brought no results; appeals have fallen on deaf ears, and art schools now admit the problem is beginning to get under their skins.

In fact they describe it as a "crisis" in the republic.

No Response

"We have advertised for female nude models over the past few years without a single response," said the Limerick spokesman.

"Live models are essential for our students studying for their examinations," he added.

"We have also tried advertising without results," he said.

Sense of Values

"Perhaps they still have their own sense of values," he added, refrectively.

In Cork, where they don't use female models, they were enjoying quite a comfortable margin of male models.

"We only use males here," said a spokesman, "and all our students have got excellent examination results."

"Irish girls are essentially modest and no amount of argument is going to persuade them art provides an exception to their strict codes of conduct, "the spokesman said.

"It seems we're going to have to turn to the continent for our models," he added.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
